There are several things which a yearbook should be. It should be a remembrance for those who are graduating. It should also be an introduction to the college for those who have never visited there. And, most important, it should be distinctively representative of the college which it seeks to portray.

It is this last goal toward which we are striving in presenting this, the 1959 Wabash. For any Wabash man, both past and present, wherever he may be, we sincerely hope that some expression, some picture, some moment in the pages of this yearbook will recall a memory of Wabash.

We have attempted, in the words of the 1922 Wabash, "to preserve in all its vigor and purity a portion of that intangible combination of past and present, of tradition and originality, of mellowness and tartness, which makes Wabash Wabash."

It is our hope that you will keep these words in mind as you leaf through the pages of this book. If for just a few moments you will imagine that you hear the tones of the bell in Center Hall ringing across the campus, it will help us present for you—
Wabash College, 1959.

IN MEMORIAM

DEAN STEPHENS

(December 7, 1930 - October 25, 1958)

A man whose love of life and intellectual curiosity were manifestations of his sparkling personality. He brought renewed joy into the lives of those persons with whom he lived and worked. Dean will long be remembered by the students, faculty, and friends of the Wabash community.

M. Toth

Byron K. Trippet, President of Wabash College

President Trippet

For 33 years Byron K. Trippet has been associated with Wabash college. He began his college career when he entered Wabash as a freshman in 1926 and reached the highest office the college has to offer when he assumed the office of president in 1956.

While a student at Wabash, Dr. Trippet distinguished himself in all phases of college life. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and graduated Summa Cum Laude. Upon his graduation he was awarded a Rhoades Scholarship and took his M.A. at Oxford. After receiving his degree he returned to Wabash where he taught in the history department until he took over the position of Dean of the College in 1941.

During his fifteen years in the dean's office Dr. Trippet was always available to the students, and it was during this time that he first became known as "Mr. Wabash." It is difficult to put into words the admiration and respect which the student body of the college, both past and present, has for President Trippet.

During his first years in office President Trippet has continued to build both the reputation and the effectiveness of the college. He created the post of Dean of Students during his first year in office. The celebration of the college's 125th anniversary as well as the building dedication of the new Lilly Memorial Library have been among the highlights of his presidency.

As student, as teacher, as dean, and finally as president of the college, Byron K. Trippet, perhaps as much as any other single individual, is responsible for making Wabash college what it is today. Through him, Wabash can face the future, not only with confidence, but with an eagerness for the continued progress which lies ahead.

President Trippet pauses on the steps of the chapel. Seen in the background is the new Lilly Memorial Library.

B. A. Rogge, Dean of the College

Dean Rogge

The role of Dean of the College is a difficult and trying one. Responsible in one way or another for nearly everything which happens in, around, or to the college, the Dean must retain control. At the same time it is necessary to stay in touch with the student body and faculty. Whether it be in planning a college celebration, such as the 125th Anniversary, or disciplining rowdy students, Dean B.A. Rogge has done a remarkable job.

In spite of the fact that Dean Rogge is most often pictured by Wabash men, as he leans over the Chapel rostrum to read the daily announcements or as he peers from the inner recesses of his office to see who is next in the nearly endless line that stretches from his door, these are only minor parts of his job.

Since he joined the Wabash faculty in 1949 as an Assistant Professor of Economics and Mathematics, Dean Rogge has been a great help to the entire Wabash community with his often demonstrated concern for the welfare of the students as well as the college. Stepping into an office vacated by Byron Trippet he had a large gap to fill, but fill it he did. In addition to the duties so far mentioned he has also continued the tradition of making the Dean's office open to any and all students who have problems, either large or small.

Dr. Rogge graduated from Hastings College and received his A.M. at the University of Nebraska and his Ph.D. from Northwestern University. He and Dr. Van Sickel co-authored Introduction to Economics, and Dr. Rogge is also the author of Jobs for All. He is married and the father of five children.

S. G. Kurtz, Dean of the Students

Dean Kurtz

One of the most important problems of a college is the assimilation of the incoming freshman. This is one of the problems facing the Dean of Students each year. Dr. Stephen Kurtz has done an admirable job in this position since he first came to Wabash college in 1956.

In addition to this and the many other duties facing him Dr. Kurtz has served as an assistant professor of history. His speciality is American history and the popularity of the class can be seen in the every growing numbers of students enrolling in the course.

Dr. Kurtz received his undergraduate education at Princeton University and did the work for his Ph.D. at the University of Pennsylvania. Before coming to Wabash he had taught at Athens college in Greece and before that was on the faculty at Kent and the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Kurtz has recently published a book entitled The Administration of John Adams, a must for every history student.

In spite of this busy schedule and the many problems facing him Dean Kurtz is never too busy to discuss any and all problems which are laid before him. The deans office, as has been the tradition at Wabash, is never closed to Wabash men, be they embarrassed seniors or frustrated rhynes.

Ways of WABASH..

Freshman Sunday

Every year about the middle of September Wabash college takes on a gleam never quite equalled at any other time in the year. Classrooms, libraries, fraternities, and dorms sparkle through and through. Upperclassmen, with a faint sigh, and freshmen, with some apprehension, know that Freshman Sunday is again upon us.

Placement Exams

In the cold grey light of the morning after, Wabash freshmen begin the round of exams, lectures, explanations, and registration which mark the beginning of the molding of a new "man of Wabash."

Tradition plays a great part in the life of any college and so it is with Wabash. Following Freshman Week, placement exams, and other activities, the Wabash freshman begins his orientation in the "Ways of Wabash." In the next few pages some of these traditions and annual events are pictured as seen through the eyes of a "rhyne."

Perhaps the first recognized mark of life at Wabash is the chapel held every Monday and Thursday mornings. Each year the first chapel is taken by the President and the second by the Dean of the College. Pictured above is B.A. Rogge, Dean.

One of the first things the freshman learns about Chapel is that you simply can't find a position on those benches which is comfortable enough to induce sleep. After a time, he finds that most of the programs are worth staying awake for anyway.

CHAPEL

Senior Council

Early in his career every Wabash freshman meets up with the 12 men who make up the Senior Council, the governing board of the student body. One of the functions of the council is the "hazing" of freshmen.

From the moment that the "rhyne" sees the large signs bearing the scarlet words, "Rhynies Read and Reading Tremble" he is responsible for such things as wearing pots, tipping to seniors, etc.

Below, Andy Pepper and Paul Mueller look over the selection of "pots."

The freshman sing from the steps of the chapel is one of the oldest and most inflexible of the "Ways of Wabash." Each year the freshmen are required to learn the words to "Old Wabash" as well as the "Alma Mater." These freight inspired recitations are presented for the entertainment of the Wabash community on two different dates. Repeat performances are arranged for the Senior Council upon request.

The Sing!

He who tries to convince himself that perhaps the "letterman's haircut" isn't as bad as it's cracked up to be is apt to be in for a rude surprise. Pictured here is the beginning of at least one amateur barber's attempt to fashion a masterpiece out of a head of hair.

Rhynes encircle the roaring Homecoming bonfire as spectators move back to avoid the rush

Homecoming

One of the highlights of the fall semester is the Homecoming celebration. Each year this weekend becomes bigger and better beginning with the Freshman bonfire on Friday night and lasting until after the annual Homecoming Dance on Saturday evening.

In actuality things get started in the middle of the week, at least for the freshmen. About Wednesday they begin scouring the town for anything remotely combustible which can be used for the bonfire. Perhaps the most difficult thing to find is the privy which traditionally tops the Homecoming bonfire.

After the bonfire begins to burn down, the freshmen, clad in various types of pajamas, begin the snake line downtown to the courthouse for a pep rally and then on to the Strand for an evening of entertainment.

Saturday brings the afternoon football game (this year a Wabash win over Bradley) and again the rhynes are wearing their evening dress. During the half-time, games are run off between the freshmen of the various living units and the award for the best Homecoming decoration is given (won this year by Beta Theta Pi).

Saturday night brings the annual Homecoming Dance sponsored by the Independent Men's Association and always a big success. After the dance it's everyone for himself and another Homecoming weekend is over, accompanied by the weary sighs of over-worked freshmen.

Fresh - Soph Fight

Each year, just before the Thanksgiving vacation, the freshmen are given a chance to throw out the freshmen rules, in the pole fight. The object of the "game" is to retrieve the flag from the top of a greased pole. Under the guidance of the Senior Council the pole is greased, the sophomore class assembles around it, and the freshmen charge. For the first time in several years the freshmen were held off for the three tries and were forced to obey the rules until Christmas. One explanation of this special interest shown by the sophomores was that two of their classmates got their heads shaved early in the semester, by freshmen.

Independent Men's Association

The Independent Men's Association, (IMA) is one of the strongest organizations on the Wabash campus. With a membership of between 75 and 100 men they annually sponsor the campus-wide Homecoming Dance, various Independent parties, and other dances throughout the year. They also have a chorus which participates in the annual Mother's Day Sing and each year build and decorate a booth for the Pan-Hellenic Dance.

Pictured above is a scene from this year's Homecoming Dance. At the left are the officers of the group (from left to right) Darrell Dick, president; Jim Ketchen, vice president; Paul Meltzer, secretary; and John McKeever, treasurer.

Fraternity Life

The fraternity system has always been an integral part of Wabash college. Fraternities were developed on the campus more than a century ago and through the years they have grown with the college.

Many incoming freshmen are introduced early and sometimes vividly to the fraternity system. These are the men who pledge with one of the eight campus fraternities. In these various houses they find not only room and board but also help and encouragement in their first months of college life.

Through the Interfraternity Council the fraternities sponsor the annual Mother's Day Sing, the needy children's Christmas parties, scholarship trophies, and of course the Pan-Hellenic Dance, which culminates the Wabash social season.

Sigs entertain as Santa delivers

PAN-HEL

Pan-Hel is usually held the second week in May. A formal dance is held on Friday night followed by a semi-formal dance on Saturday evening. Various dinners and parties supplement the dances in what always turns out to be an indescribable week-end.

Graduation

Many things have happened by the time graduation rolls around each year. The rhyne is no longer a rhyne. He is as much a part of Wabash as is the senior taking part in graduation. Already the new faces of prospective students for next year have appeared on campus and the office of admissions of Wabash college as well as of eight national fraternities have begun laying out the red carpets.

During those last weeks in May come Pan-Hel, Awards Chapel, Class Day, and finally, examinations. Comprehensives have been long gone, almost a month, and the college swings into preparations for graduation. Old alumni and friends of the college arrive, class reunion dinners are held, the Bacealaureate Service is completed and finally the long black line forms in front of the Chapel.

There's not much left, a few short steps, a few wise words, and it will all be over—for the senior. But the freshmen, pardon us, sophomore, leaving the chapel after graduation has three more years in which to walk the "Ways of Wabash." He's a full fledged Wabash man . . . and it makes a difference.

BUILDINGS.

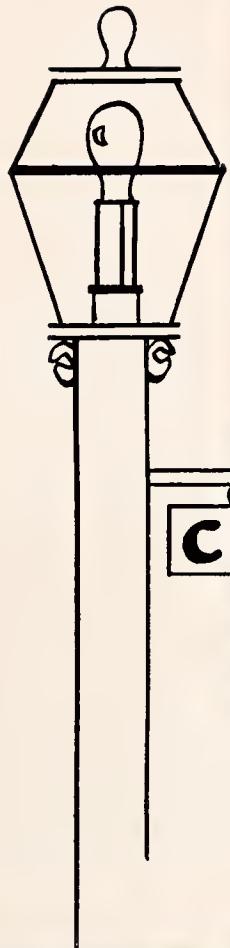

FOREST

Forest Hall is the oldest building on campus. Completed in the fall of 1833, Caleb Mills taught the College's first class in it on Dec. 3 of that same year. It was named Forest Hall because of its location in a dense forest on the bank of Sugar Creek. Since then it has been twice moved. It finally found a permanent resting place on the southeast end of the campus. Today the hall is used for Division II and III faculty offices and for seminar meetings.

SOUTH

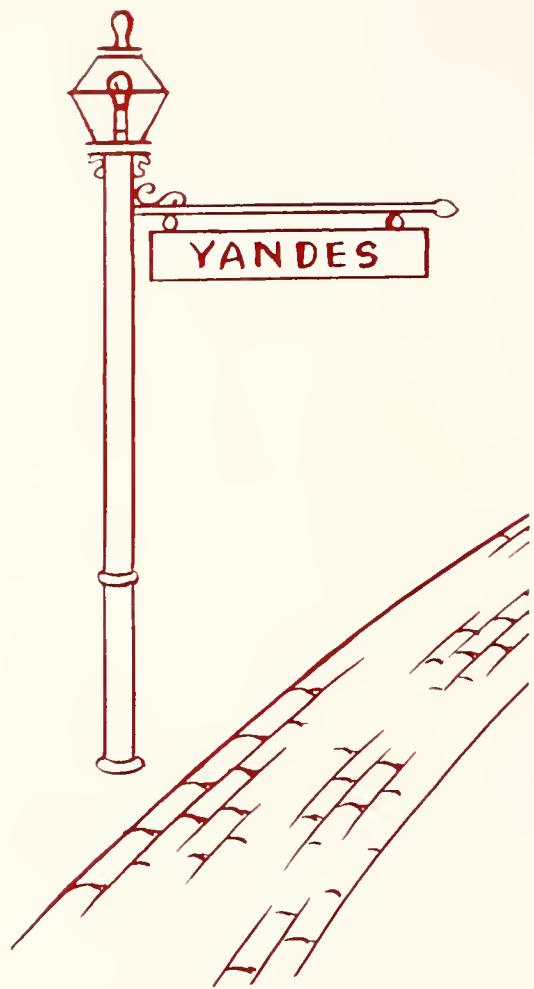

Originally designed as a dormitory for Wabash students, South Hall was completed in 1838. However in September of the same year, the newly finished building was gutted by fire. By 1839 however, it had been reconstructed and was once again ready for use. Remodelled in 1872 and again in 1880, it is now used by the Department of Romance Languages and for office space by the Superintendent of grounds and buildings.

The first section of Center Hall was completed in the spring of 1857 under the administration of President White. The north wing was added in 1870 and one year later the south wing was built. Old Center Hall was the home of the college library until 1891 when it was moved to Yandes Hall, and also housed the chapel until 1928 when the present chapel was built.

MILLIGAN CLOCK

Striking the hour and half hour, Milligan Clock is one of the most familiar landmarks on the Wabash campus. It was designed and financed by Mrs. Henry J. Milligan, as a memorial to her husband, who was Chairman of the Board of Trustees from 1906 until 1916. The clock was completed in 1920. To the left of the clock may be seen the greenhouse which is attached to Waugh Hall.

Students relax in the shade in front of Yandes Hall on an early summer afternoon

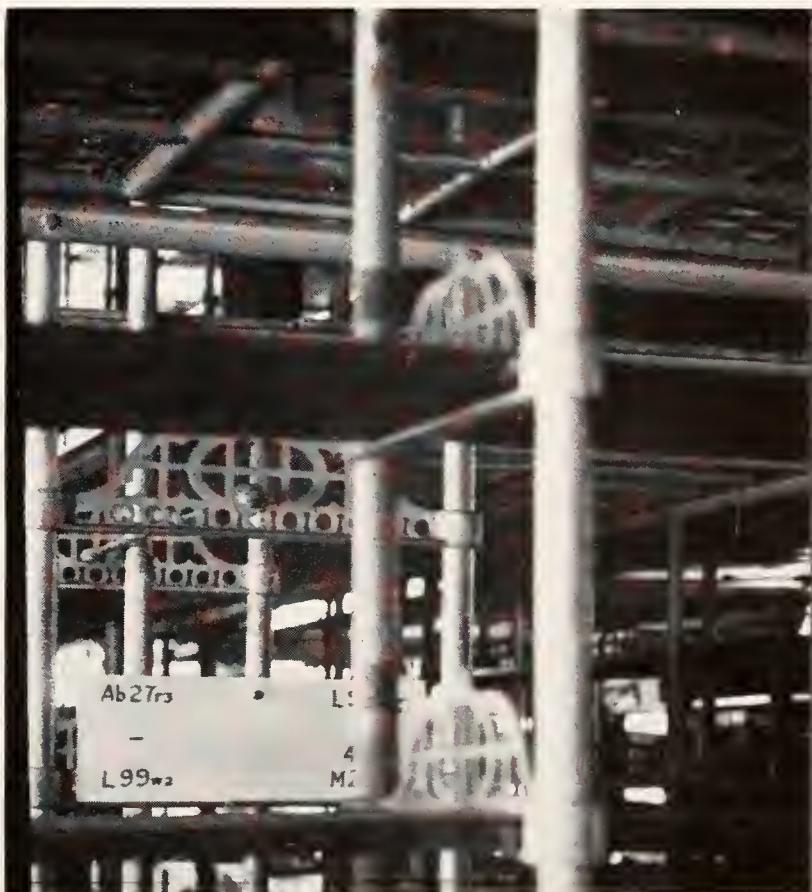

Crews work through the late afternoon moving books to the new library

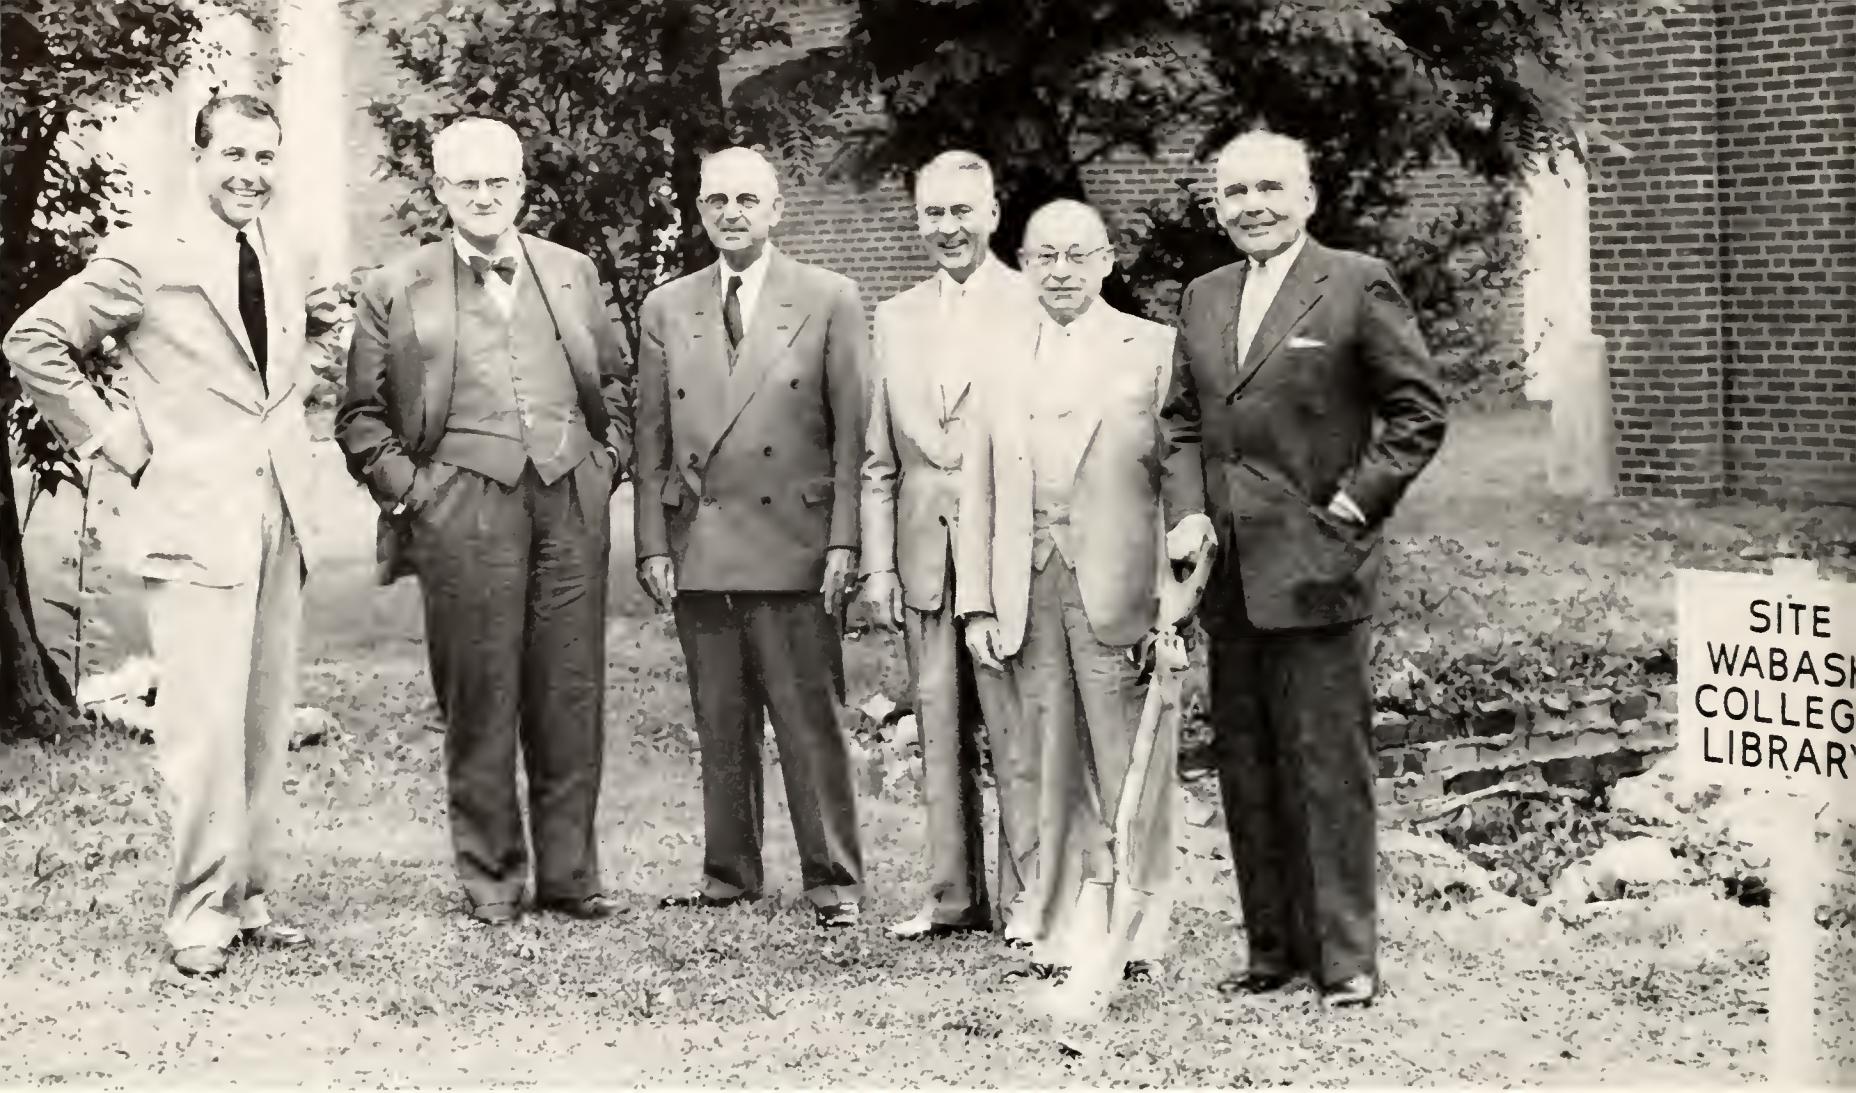

Since its completion in 1891, Yandes Hall has been the home of the Wabash college library. For a number of years it had been apparent that the library, now numbering about 120,000 volumes, was too large for the limited facilities of Yandes. The new library was started early last summer and in January of this year it was completed. Students, faculty, and library staff joined in carting and carrying the books from their long time home in Yandes to the newly completed, Lilly Memorial Library.

Plans for Yandes Hall have not yet been completed. At the present time it is being remodelled to house the language and art departments. The first floor has been converted into an art gallery for the display of local work as well as travelling displays. The upper story is being used by the language department for offices and other facilities.

For many years Yandes Hall served the college well in its function as a home for the library. In its remodelled form the building will continue to be of use to the college for many years to come.

Rows of empty shelves remain after the big move

Don Thompson, head librarian

It is interesting, as Mark Van Doren pointed out during the Convocation which preceded the dedication of the new library, to pause in the midst of change and look into the past and the future. Thus it is with the moving of the college library from Yandes Hall into the new Lilly Memorial Library. It is hard to imagine that Yandes, now nearly 70 years old, was once a new building, or that the Lilly Library will someday give way to an even newer building.

For several years the library staff has been working on different plans to build for Wabash college a library that was distinctively Wabash. They travelled to other libraries, studied plans, and worked with architects. It was not an easy job but it was well done. It would be well to mention here the staff members who worked so long and hard. It is they, along with the college administration, Eli Lilly, and the many other concerned parties to whom we all owe a debt of thanks. Donald Thompson, head librarian, of course deserves a great deal of praise. Others who should be mentioned are Gladys Otto, Helen Foley, Estella Kummings, Delores Maxwell, Katherine Gullion, and Charlotte Gregory; all members of the library staff.

Lilly Library

Shown below are the card files and check out desk

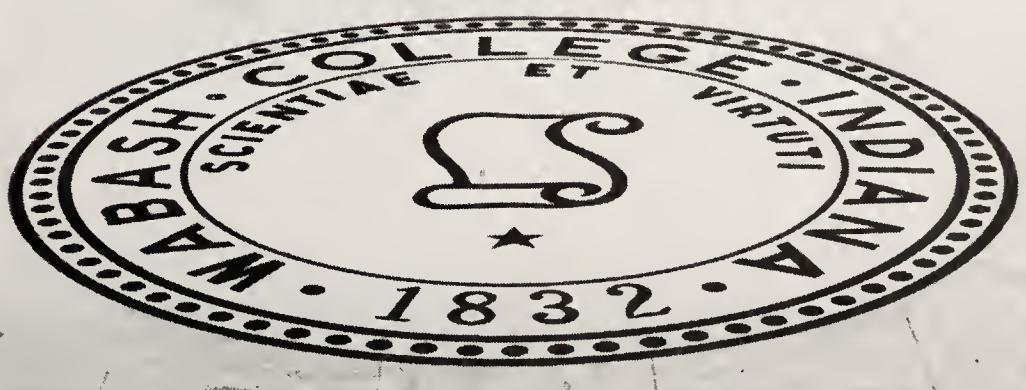

As viewed from the north main reading and study area the new Lilly Memorial Library gives a feeling of spaciousness through its functional planning and spectacular use of diffused lighting. Comfortable furniture and a wealth of information make the library a popular place for both serious studying and just browsing for relaxation.

In addition to the main floor study areas there are specially designed reading alcoves in the mezzanine and individual study desks strategically placed in close proximity to study materials. The basement floor is devoted to open stack area. Total capacity of the library is 225,000 volumes, all of which are protected by complete air conditioning.

Ascending the magnificent staircase one finds the unique Goodrich Seminar room. This room, with its great oval cherry table and stone walls bearing the names of the world's great thinkers from 2,000 b.c., is devoted entirely to great books and discussion facilities.

On the third floor, the auditorium, capable of seating 150 people, is located. There is also a music listening room for the growing collection of fine recordings. Three seminar rooms located on this floor, may be opened into one large discussion area by means of folding doors.

GYMNASIUM

Since its completion in 1918, the Wabash college gymnasium has been the center of Wabash athletics and the home of the Little Giants. The gym has played a significant role in the history of the college and has been a focal point of the development of the fine athletic program which the college sponsors, both intercollegiate and intramural.

The gymnasium has an open court 100 by 180 feet. It has been recently floored and equipped with folding bleachers. A smaller gym on the second floor provides additional recreational facilities. New showers and dressing room facilities were recently installed.

Housed in the gymnasium are also the offices of the physical education department. Every Wabash student is required to take two semesters of physical education. Included in these classes are sports such as basketball, softball, tennis, handball, volleyball, and also gymnastics.

Friendly competition between the various living groups on campus is carried on in the gymnasium. The intramural program is an important part of college life and at Wabash is a well organized and successful operation.

But athletics are not the only form of entertainment staged in the gymnasium. Due to its size and seating capacity it houses many of the campus activities which are too large to be comfortably handled by other facilities. Every spring a real transformation takes place when the gym is readied for the Pan-Hellenic Dance. Also college luncheons on special occasions, are often held in the gym.

Many and varied are the uses which the student body and the college have for the gymnasium. But of course, the use which remains longest in your memory is of cheering crowds witnessing another victory.

CAMPUS CENTER

The Campus Center was completed in 1954 and since that time has been the leading social and recreational center for the entire campus. The main floor contains the Great Hall which is beautifully furnished and normally used as the college lounge. On special occasions this hall can be converted into dining facilities for 250 people.

Also on the main floor is the President's Dining Room which is used for important dinners. Rounding out the facilities on the main floor is the dining room and kitchen where food is prepared for those men who live in the college dormitories.

The second floor of the building contains special meeting rooms where various campus councils as well as meetings of campus visitors are held. Also on this floor is the ladies' lounge and storage space.

Perhaps the most useful part of the building, at least from the view of the students, is the basement. Here is housed the recreational facilities and the Scarlet Inn, both of which are often used by the student body.

Bowling alleys, pool tables, billiard table, and ping pong tables are to be found here. A recent innovation, and one which has been well received, is the addition of a book store which is open nearly every day.

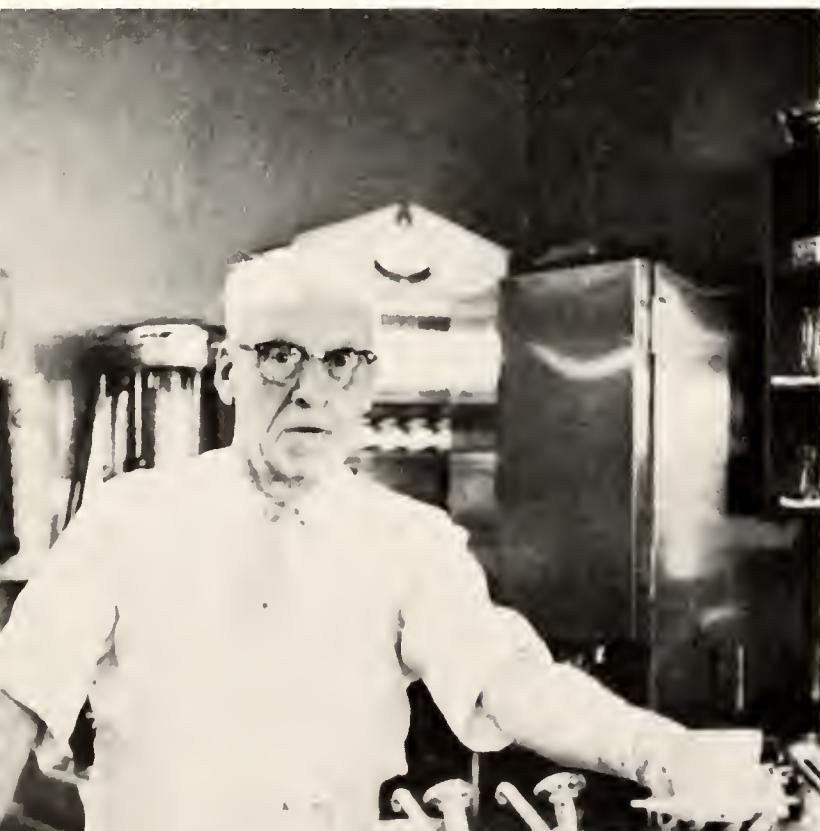

Favorite gathering place, as it has always been in the past no matter where its location, is the Scarlet Inn. Here in the corner booths or at the large round tables, faculty and students meet to discuss, argue, or just relax over a hamburger or a cup of coffee.

STRIKE—Almost any time in the afternoon or evening bowlers can be found enjoying the alleys in the Campus Center. Pictured above are some of these caught in the midst of an open frame.

CREAM?—One of the most familiar faces on campus is that of "Charlie," the everpresent guardian of the Scarlet Inn. All jokes aside, his coffee is the best.

Two of the busiest places on campus are the bowling alleys and the Scarlet Inn. In addition to the open bowling which is always carried on in the Campus Center there is also a bowling league. Under the auspices of the American Bowling Congress, the league consists of eight teams and bowling matches are held every Wednesday evening. Trophies are awarded to the winning team as well as to outstanding individuals.

In the adjoining billiard room the competition is not as well organized but is, certainly, on a higher intellectual plane. Try as they may the students, most of whom are limited to four years experience, are unable to come up to the level of some of the more talented members of the faculty.

Just across the hall from the recreation rooms, and probably as much used, is the newly opened book store. For a number of years the need for such an undertaking had been apparent but no one was willing to give it a try. However, since the store was opened, sales have been constantly climbing and there are now more than 1,000 titles listed for sale.

Through the few years since it was completed the Campus Center has proven to be one of the most useful buildings on the Wabash campus. It has drawn many state-wide meetings to the campus and has often been used for meetings of various collegiate organizations throughout the state.

Each spring, the center serves as headquarters for the Honor Scholarship examinations which bring students from all over the country to apply for the 20 scholarships which the college offers annually. Five of these scholarships cover nearly double tuition, five offer full tuition, and ten offer half tuition.

During the summer the Campus Center is kept open for the use of the men who are brought to the college for training in the Personal Development Program. These men, sent by various industries, for intensive study in the arts and sciences, are housed in the dormitories adjoining the Campus Center.

The Campus Center is truly the center of nearly all campus activity. It is used almost constantly both during the school term and also in the summer. Spacious, attractive, and functional, it is designed to serve the college well for many years.

Two hundred honor scholars, members of the faculty, and representatives of various student groups dine in the Great Hall between rounds of examinations.

Morris and Wolcott Halls

The two buildings pictured above on each side of the Campus Center are Wolcott and Morris Halls, the newest residence halls on the Wabash campus. Occupied in 1954, the two buildings provide room accommodations for seventy students.

Each of the occupants is provided with a private room and two rooms are adjoined by a semi-private bath. Dorm Counsellors are provided by the college for each of the dorms. Students who have had some experience as assistant counsellors are usually selected for these jobs.

The men in the dorms have access to all facilities of the Campus Center and most of them take their meals in the college dining hall.

The Wabash College Chapel, which was completed in 1928, seats one thousand persons. It is used for the weekly chapel services, commencement, and special entertainments. Space is provided here for the departments of Classics, Philosophy, Religion, and Music.

CHAPEL

Goodrich Hall was erected in 1938. Located in this building are the physical sciences. The departments of Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics have offices here.

The building is well equipped with laboratories, lecture rooms, faculty offices, and research facilities. In addition, the Governor's Room serves for meetings of the Division I faculty as well as for special occasions.

Required courses in the physical sciences include two semesters of mathematics and two semesters of physics-chemistry. Advanced students are encouraged to do independent study and some of them are selected to work as lab instructors in less advanced courses.

Goodrich Hall has its own library, which contains most of the volumes of the college library related to the physical sciences. Reading room is provided for those students who wish to study in the library and the books are always easily accessible when needed for information in various courses.

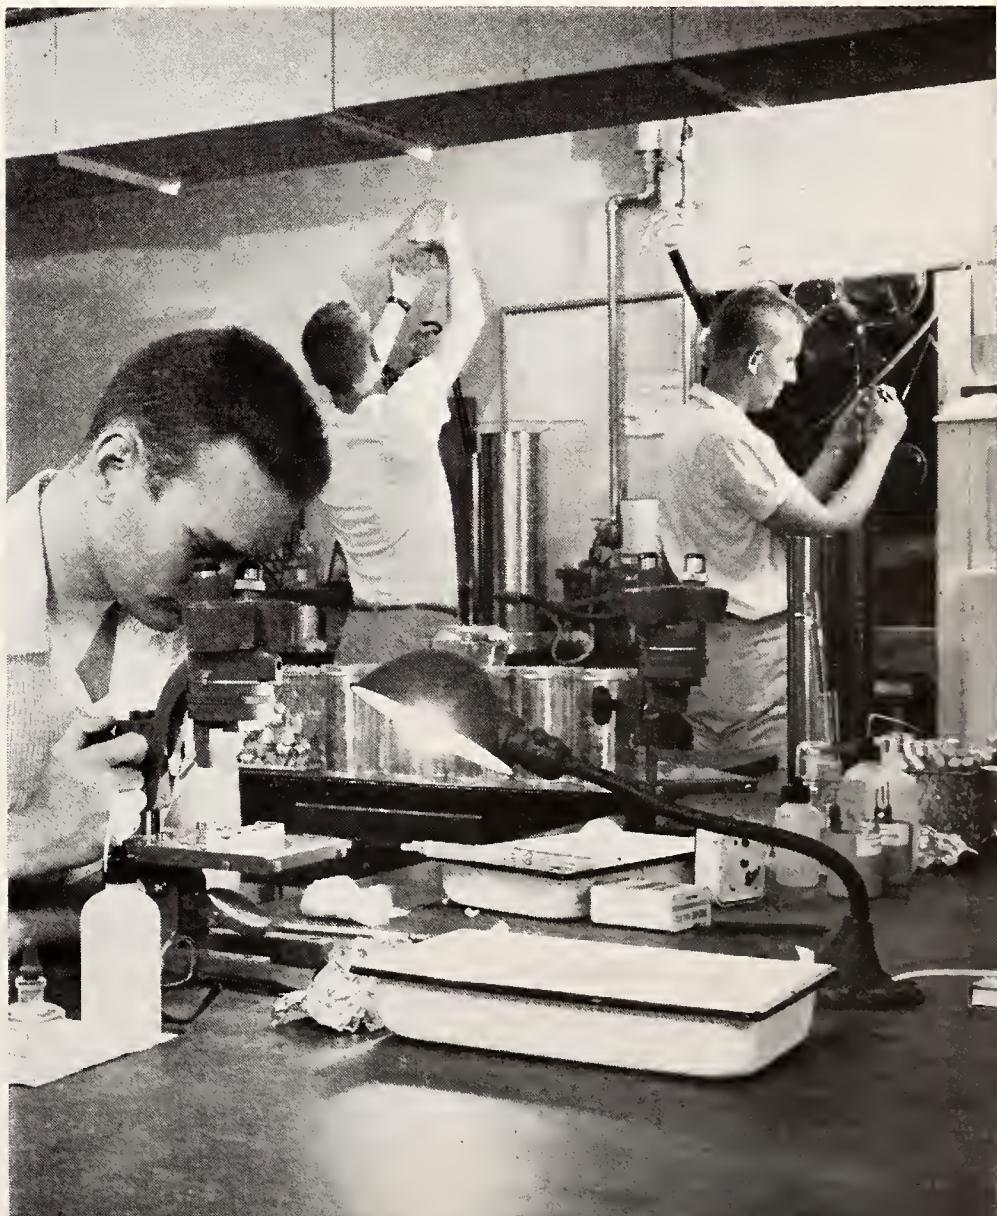

WAUGH

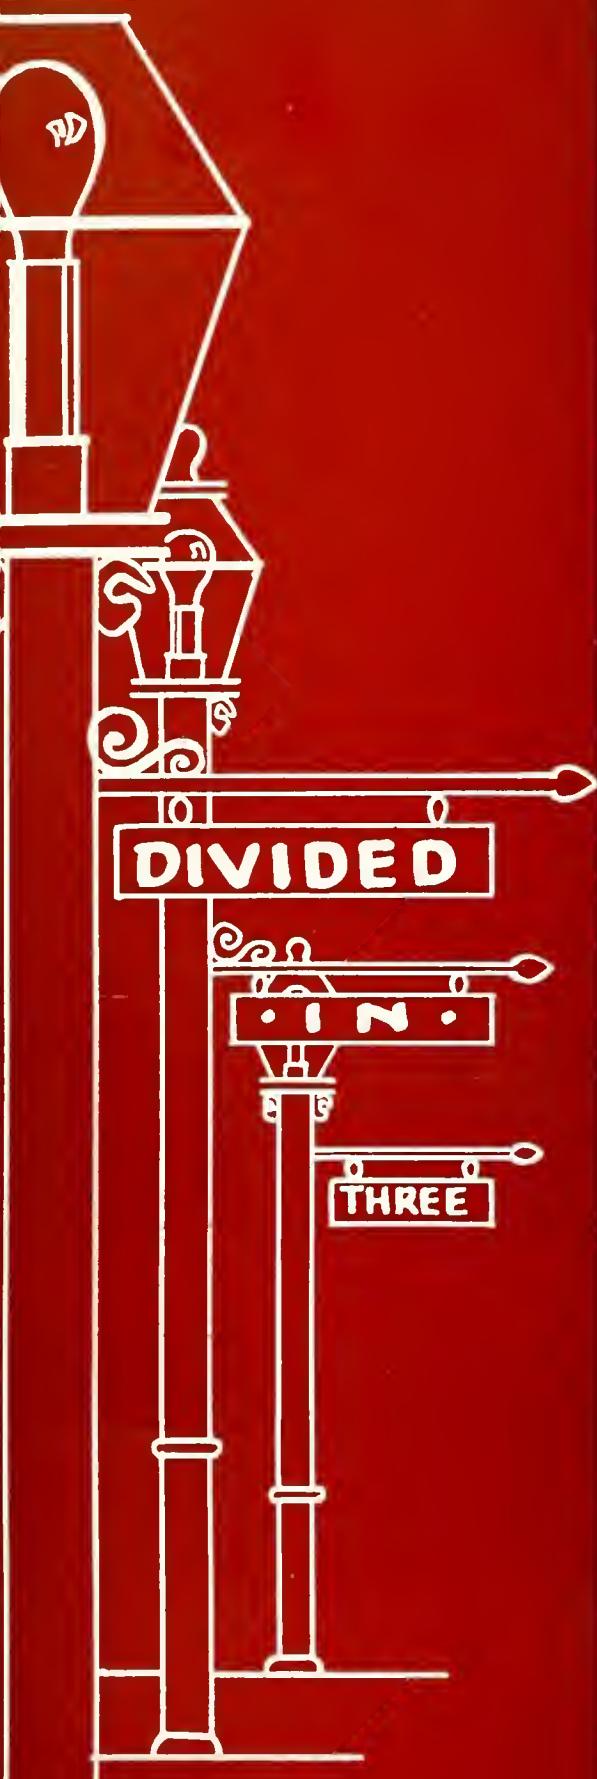

Waugh Science Hall, which was completed in 1947, houses the departments of Botany, Zoology, and Psychology. Adjoining it is a modern greenhouse in which is contained specimens of nearly all local flora.

On the basement floor is located advanced labs in biology as well as a modern, sub-level lecture room, and the research labs. On the first floor are offices of the faculty, elementary biology labs, and lecture rooms.

The second floor is also devoted to faculty offices and labs. Also on this floor is the Waugh library and classrooms. Offices of the Psychology Department are on the third floor and the Psychology lab is located on the fourth floor.

The only required course in the biological sciences is a two semester course in introductory Biology. Advanced students are given excellent opportunities to study in one of the research labs. Summer employment is often offered to the better students who are interested in majoring in one of the biological sciences.

Board of Publications

The Board of Publications, composed of four upperclassmen and three faculty members, is responsible for passing the budgets and selecting well qualified men to edit The Bachelor and The Wabash and to head the News Bureau. This governing body, for the 1958-59 school year was composed of upperclassmen, John Hawks, Chris Johnson, Mike Plummer, and Roger Smith, plus faculty members, Robert S. Harvey, J. D. Hostetter, and R. Robert Mitchum. The group was headed by Chris Johnson, while Mr. Harvey and Mr. Mitchum serve the board in the additional capacities of secretary and treasurer respectively.

News Bureau

As the Wabash counterpart of the INS, the News Bureau furnishes information to wire services and newspapers about Wabash College and its student body. The 1958-59 Bureau was composed of Dave Bohlin, Jim Rader, Roger Smith, and John Stiles.

Although the principle function of the Bureau is to write up Wabash sporting events and send them to newspapers throughout the state, it also furnishes articles about students who have received recognition here to their home-town newspapers. The Bureau is student operated like The Bachelor and The Wa- bash and did a commendable job this year under the leadership of chairman John Stiles.

The completion and dedication of the Lilly Library offered an opportunity for Wabash to "meet the public." Thanks to the efforts of the News Bureau the ceremony was well publicized both locally and elsewhere in the state. The Indianapolis papers carried several write-ups, including one pictorial section, on the dedication ceremonies.

The News Bureau is assisted by Mr. J. D. Hostetter in its service to the college.

the BACHELOR

The Bachelor, "The Voice of Wabash Since 1908," started a new half century in traditional Wabash form this fall. This completely student-operated publication makes its appearance every Friday in the dormitories and fraternities on campus to be digested by its enthusiastic reading public.

Jobs on the Bachelor staff involve a great deal of work, but there seem always to be plenty of applications to fill the demands of the staff. Editorial posts are mainly filled by upperclassmen but there are also places for eager freshmen on the news and sports staffs.

The final product is a joint effort of the news, sports, and editorial staffs, while the business manager and his crew handle problems pertaining to finance and budget.

John Johnson was first semester editor and was succeeded by Jim Rader during the second half of the year. Craig Green and John Stiles handled the position of business manager during the first and second semester respectively.

The Bachelor performed its function well this year, both as an unbiased report of news and as the expression of a wide range of opinions on controversial subjects. The addition of the Lilly Library to the Wabash campus and the activities on the weekend of the dedication found their rightful place among the first pages of a new fifty years of The Bachelor, while the inside pages of issue after issue were devoted to various editorials and "open letters" concerning timely subjects. Above, the editorial staff makes final corrections. Pictured are: Stiles, Rader, Conlon, Johnson, Boyd, Russell.

Hays who is not pictured, comprised the editorial staff. Sports copy, activities research, faculty files, and numerous trips to the library occupied their time throughout the semester, so that deadlines might be met and the yearbook finished in time for distribution.

PROBLEMS—A portion of the editorial staff meets (above) to discuss the knotty problems which nearly always arise in trying to correlate the various sections of a year-

Although the debate team compiled a rather mediocre record this year, they added several young debators to their ranks and show great promise of capably representing Wabash next year.

This year's subject was—Resolved: That the further development of nuclear weapons should be prohibited by international agreement.

Among the highlights of the season was a tie for first place in a 17 team meet at Indiana University over such powers as Purdue, DePauw, Illinois, and the University of Virginia. Another high point in the forensic season was the Wabash-Oxford debate held in the Chapel on November 8th.

SPEAKERS BUREAU

Audiences in central Indiana and Illinois have been supplied with speakers of exceptional ability for twenty-one years by the Wabash Speakers Bureau. This organization, which is the oldest of its kind in the United States, supplies speakers at a nominal fee for church meetings, women's clubs, service clubs, and convention audiences.

The Bureau, organized in 1927, gives students, who have been trained in the Speech Department, a chance to speak before audiences such as they will meet in later life. All of these speakers have shown a special interest in speech and many of them have exceptional talent.

Directing the Bureau are W. Norwood Brigance, chairman of the department, Victor M. Powell, and John C. Tindel. Since its conception the Bureau has supplied its 2500 audiences with speeches ranging from informative lectures on timely subjects to humorous narratives and chalk talks and has become the model for similar organizations at other colleges throughout the country.

GLEE CLUB

Once again the Wabash Glee Club has taken its place as one of the most outstanding singing groups in the mid-west. This year the group sang fifty concerts throughout Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois.

In addition the Glee Club last spring made a twelve inch hi-fidelity record album for RGA-Victor which has sold exceptionally well and truly represents the fine music provided by the Glee Club.

Again this season, as in the past, the Mitchmen combined with Western Womens College for concerts on the campuses of both colleges.

Director of the Glee Club is R. Robert Mitchum. Officers for the present year are Fred Schue, president; Ralph Thomas, vice-president; and John Bachman, secretary-treasurer.

Wabash College is indeed fortunate to have such an organization both for the enjoyment which they provide and the picture of Wabash which they present to their many audiences.

BAND

Under the direction of colorful Bob Mitchum, the Wabash band has enjoyed a highly successful year. Along with its traditional performances at football and basketball games, the band made two well received Chapel appearances. Trips were made by the band to the Butler and Ohio Wesleyan football games.

The band consists of about twenty-five men who meet on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for rehearsals. In addition to the spirited marches, the band has developed a repertoire of program music. Newly formed this year are the brass choir and a dixieland band.

The group has greatly increased its prestige on the campus through its added programs during the past year. The band has always been, at least at Wabash, a good reliable pep band for athletic events and for pep rallys. However this has changed considerably during the past year through extended activities and hard work. The chapel programs were well received and a number of new members were added through them. In addition to the other activities two of the members were selected for the all college band which performed this year at Indiana University.

The additional time that Mr. Mitchum, as well as the members of the band, has spent during the past year is much noticed and appreciated by the student body.

the SCARLET MASQUE

Associated with Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics fraternity, the Scarlet Masque had another very successful season with one fine performance after another. The season began with the presentation of "Twelve Angry Men," movie and broadway play. Next was the production of Shakespeare's "Henry IV" part one. For the spring performance the Masque combined with the Crawfordsville Dramatic Society to present "My Sister Eileen." Also given in the spring were the one-act plays written by members of the student body.

Election to the Masque depends on the "point system" which is based on the amount of work and time the students put in on productions during the year. Dan Millar served this year as president and Mr. James Hostetter was faculty advisor and director of the productions.

Pictured on the facing page is a scene from "Twelve Angry Men." Earl Talbot takes a "swipe" at Dave Bechtold as the rest of the cast look on. Above Patty Barrett leads a mambo line consisting of Wally Schnee, John Hodges, John Peters, Bill Kilgore, and Jack Kudlaty in the production of "My Sister Eileen." Pictured below in a scene from "Henry IV" are Dennis Sheridan, Jim Hutcheson (Falstaff), and Terry Anderson.

Holliday (foreground) and Waymire head the line as the Student Christian Federation entertains the choir from Western College for Women

Student Christian Federation

The Student Christian Federation is a non-denominational group comprised of students of all faiths and devoted to non-denominational fellowship. Every other week guest speakers talk on varied subjects and in the discussion period which follows the students can express their views on the effects of the current topic on society.

Steve Waymire was president during the preceding year. Phil Holliday served as vice-president and Paul Meltzer as secretary-treasurer.

Methodist Student Movement

The Methodist Student Movement is an affiliate of the S.C.F. and is composed of Methodist students. The group sponsored speakers throughout the year and offered a chance for members to learn more about their faith.

Walt Bridgewater served as president while Barry Burke, Phil Schuman, and Dave Dunham served as vice-president, secretary and treasurer respectively.

Newman Club

The Newman Club is made up of Catholic Students. Once a month its members attend church and receive communion as a group. As an affiliate of the S.C.F., the Newman Club brings outstanding speakers on religious topics to the campus.

Canterbury Club

The Canterbury Club is also affiliated with the S.C.F. Now in its second year of operation this organization gives Episcopal students a chance to meet other members of their own faith. Each year the group holds a picnic at Turkey Run State Park along with clubs from Indiana University and Purdue. Although there are no officers the group was led this year by Phil Holliday, Gary Closter, and Neal Johnson.

College Club

The College Club is an organization of Wabash Presbyterians and is a member of the Indiana Collegiate Westminster Fellowship. The group is also connected with the S.C.F. In their regular meetings the members hear leading churchmen discuss subjects pertaining to theology.

Will Hays Club

Tom Marshall Club

Public Affairs Forum

The Public Affairs Forum and the International Relations Club are newly reorganized groups devoted to stimulating and maintaining interest in all phases of politics. The International Relations Club is concerned exclusively with problems of international scope while the Public Affairs Forum deals with all other fields of political activity. Membership in the two groups is concurrent.

Last year the political groups on the campus became practically defunct and were temporarily replaced by another organization, Group B. While the primary purpose of Group B. was planning for revitalizing of the former groups, it also sponsored several worthwhile events throughout the year. Among them were the well-received and stimulating debates on the Right to Work laws and morality in politics.

At the beginning of this year, under the guidance of Dr. Roberts, the Public Affairs Forum and International Relations Club were reorganized with the specific intent that they should become active campus groups. To assure this the constitution states that they must meet at least once a month. The officers of the two groups are just inverse for the two. Doug Burns is president of PAF while he serves as vice-president of IRC. Otto Schug is president of IRC and vice-president of PAF. Mead Killion is secretary-treasurer of both.

With the help of Dr. Wilder on the local, state, and national levels, and Dr. Roberts on the international level the clubs have been very successful this year. The first meeting was of the IRC and a speaker from Indiana University gave a talk on the problems of Southeast Asia.

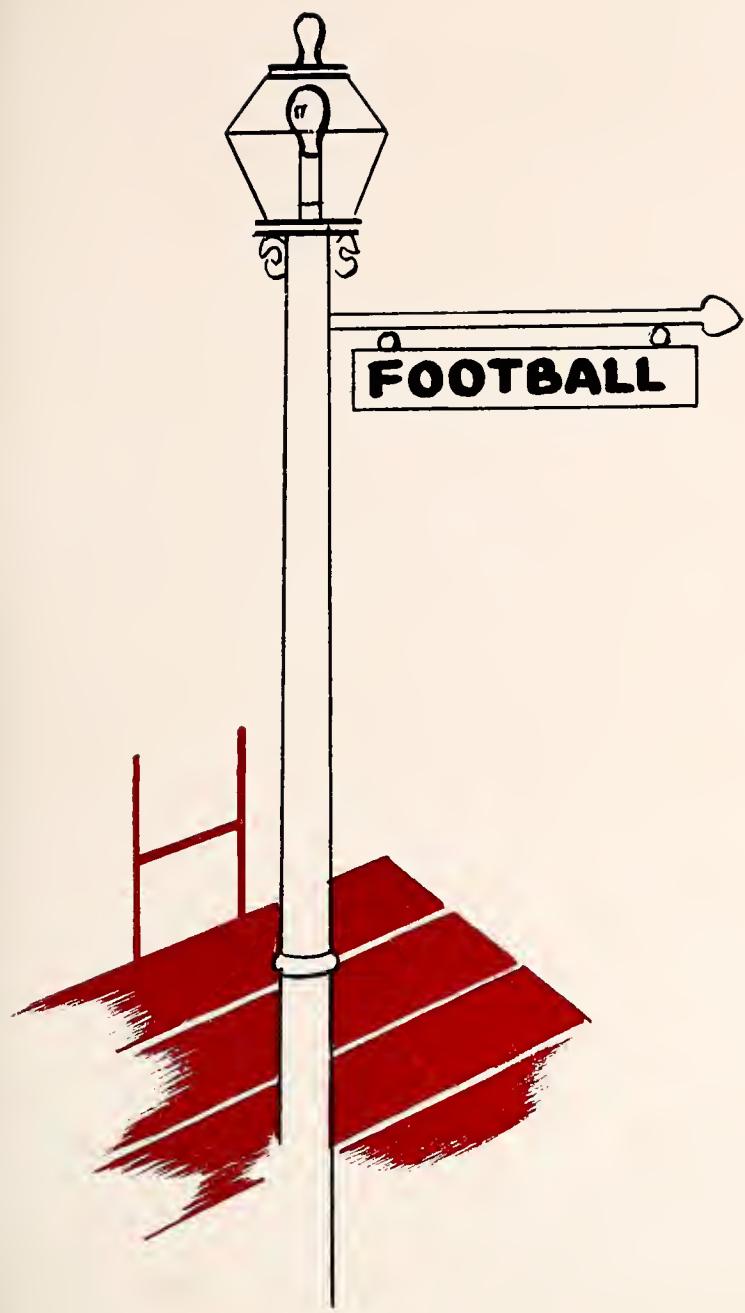

The second meeting of the year was sponsored by the PAF in conjunction with the Indiana Citizenship Clearing House. Participants from eight colleges and prominent local and state political leaders discussed labor and politics, business and politics, the factional differences of both Democrats and Republicans, and terminated the highly successful day with a debate on political beliefs of the two major parties.

ATHLETICS

The 1958 edition of the Wabash College Little Giant football squad was victimized by inexperience and key injuries which cost Coach Garland Frazier his first losing season at Wabash. The team finished with a mediocre 3-6 record, defeating Illinois Normal, Hanover, and Bradley, while losing to Albion, Butler, Washington of St. Louis, Ohio Wesleyan, Southwestern, and arch-rival, DePauw.

The Little Giants were forced to pay dearly for each of their three victories as they ironically lost a valuable senior starter in each winning game. Halfback George Trout, tackle Jay Huffman, and guard Fred Pipin all were lost to the team for much of the season. The loss of these stalwarts forced Coach Frazier to rely almost exclusively on underclassmen for what must be considered a "building year."

The backfield found fullbacks Fred Schwaner, senior, and Joe Sabatini, sophomore; and halfbacks Fred Schwaner, senior, and Joe Sabatini, sophomore; and halfbacks Dick White and Jack McHenry, both freshmen, along with Sophomore Jay Moore, working behind the quarterback duo of Rudy Folta, sophomore, and Scott Pollizotto, junior.

The line, which fought courageously to overcome its definite lack of size and experience, was equally smattered with a generous supply of underclassmen. Composing the bulwark of the forward wall were Seniors Walt Inman, Bobb Carr, Huffman and Pipin; Juniors Rod Grove, Dan Remley and Bob Damim; Sophomores John Witters, Carlos Carroll, Vince La Donne, John O'Neil, and Roger Carroll, along with Freshman Gary Byers.

The Little Giants opened their 1958 season at Albion College and found themselves on the short end of a 21-0 final score. Wabash was unable to muster any sort of offensive threat as Albion controlled the ball for much of the game and was able to keep the Big Red from penetrating any closer than the 35 yard line. Making the defeat an even harder pill to swallow was the fact that this was the first shutout in 64 games for a Frazier-coached football team.

The following week found Wabash playing the tough and talented Butler Bulldogs at the Butler Bowl in Indianapolis. Led by the hard running of halfback George Trout and the pin-point passing of quarterback Rudy Folta, the Little Giants scored first against the Bulldogs and trailed only 13-7 at the end of the first half. The dam broke in the second half, however, as Butler flooded the Wabash end zone with a four touchdown barrage that completely annihilated the tired but valiant forces of Coach Frazier. Wabash rolled up 17 first downs to 15 for Butler and were only out-gained on the ground and in the air by a total of 26 yards, but the all-important statistic on the scoreboard at game's end read Butler 40—Wabash 6.

Schedule

Albion 21	WABASH 0
Butler 40	WABASH 6
Washington 14	WABASH 13
WABASH 13	Illinois Normal 6
WABASH 24	Hanover 7
Ohio Wesleyan 48	WABASH 22
WABASH 30	Bradley 6
Southwestern 28	WABASH 20
DePauw 24	WABASH 8

Rudy Folta, quarterback, prepares to pitch out to trailing halfback, George Trout (No. 40) as three Washington of St. Louis Bears move in for the anticipated kill.

On October 10 the Big Red opened their home schedule against the powerful single wing of Coach Carl Snavely's Washington of St. Louis Bears. This time the Cavemen fell victim to the new extra point ruling as the Bears eked out a 14-13 victory. Spearheaded by the running of Trout and Fullback Fred Schwaner the Little Giants once again jumped out to an early lead, this time 7-0. Washington wasted little time in retaliating, however as Ed Lind, Little All-American, sparked a sustained scoring march which was climaxed by an extra point pass good for two points and an 8-7 lead. Each team scored once more in the second half but Washington held on to its slim one point margin and victory.

It was Dads' Day at Ingall's Feld when the Little Giants captured their first win of the season over Illinois Normal. Quarterback Folta and halfback Dick White combined their talents for a 44 yard punt return and a 24 yard pass play good for 13 points and a 13-6 win.

The Cavemen made it two straight the following week at Hanover when they galloped for 18 points in the second half and a hard fought 24-7 victory. The passing of Folta and the running of Joe Sabatini, Jack McHenry, and Jay Moore were instrumental in the four scoring drives which resulted in victory number two for the Big Red.

Halfback Jack McHenry looks for an escape route as he is surrounded in the Washington of St. Louis game.

Its the Washington game again as end Carlos Caroll goes not quite high enough in an effort to snag a high pass from quarterback Rudy Folta.

The following week the Little Giants travelled east to Ohio Wesleyan where they ran head-first into a scoring machine which racked up 463 yards rushing and passing, and a 48-22 win over the game, but out-manned forces in Scarlet.

A rain-soaked Homecoming throng of 2,500 cheered with approval as the football men of Wabash rose from the depths of defeat to the pinnacle of victory with a resounding 30-6 win over the heavily favored Bradley Braves. The Little Giants trailed the Braves at half-time 6-0, but they returned from the intermission with fire in their eyes and when the smoke had cleared the Big Red had a victory that will go down in the records as one of the guttiest exhibitions of football ever displayed by a Wabash football team. The Cave-men racked up 301 yards of total offense while the forward wall was holding the supposedly potent Bradley offense to a single touchdown.

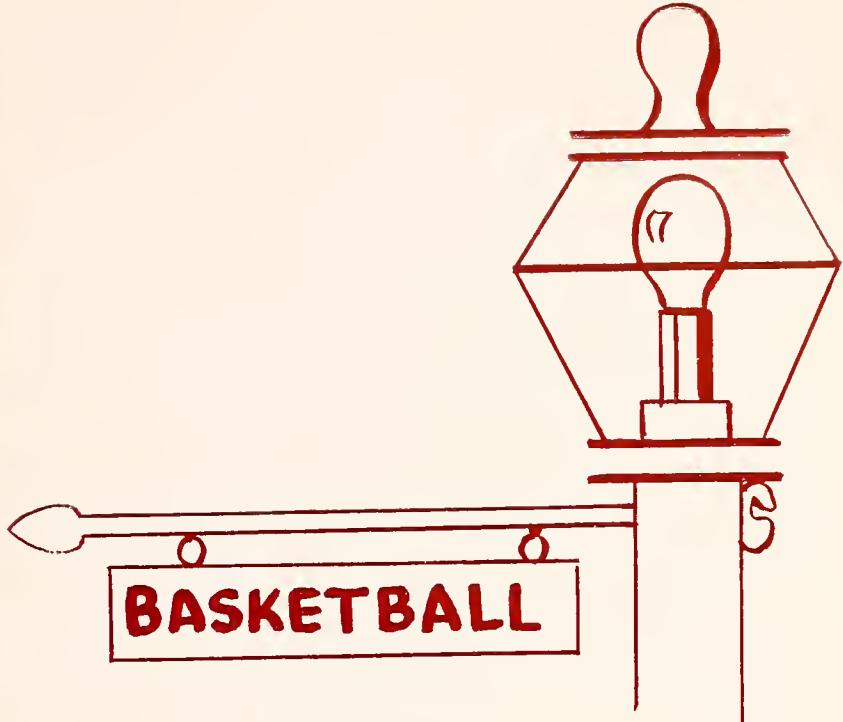

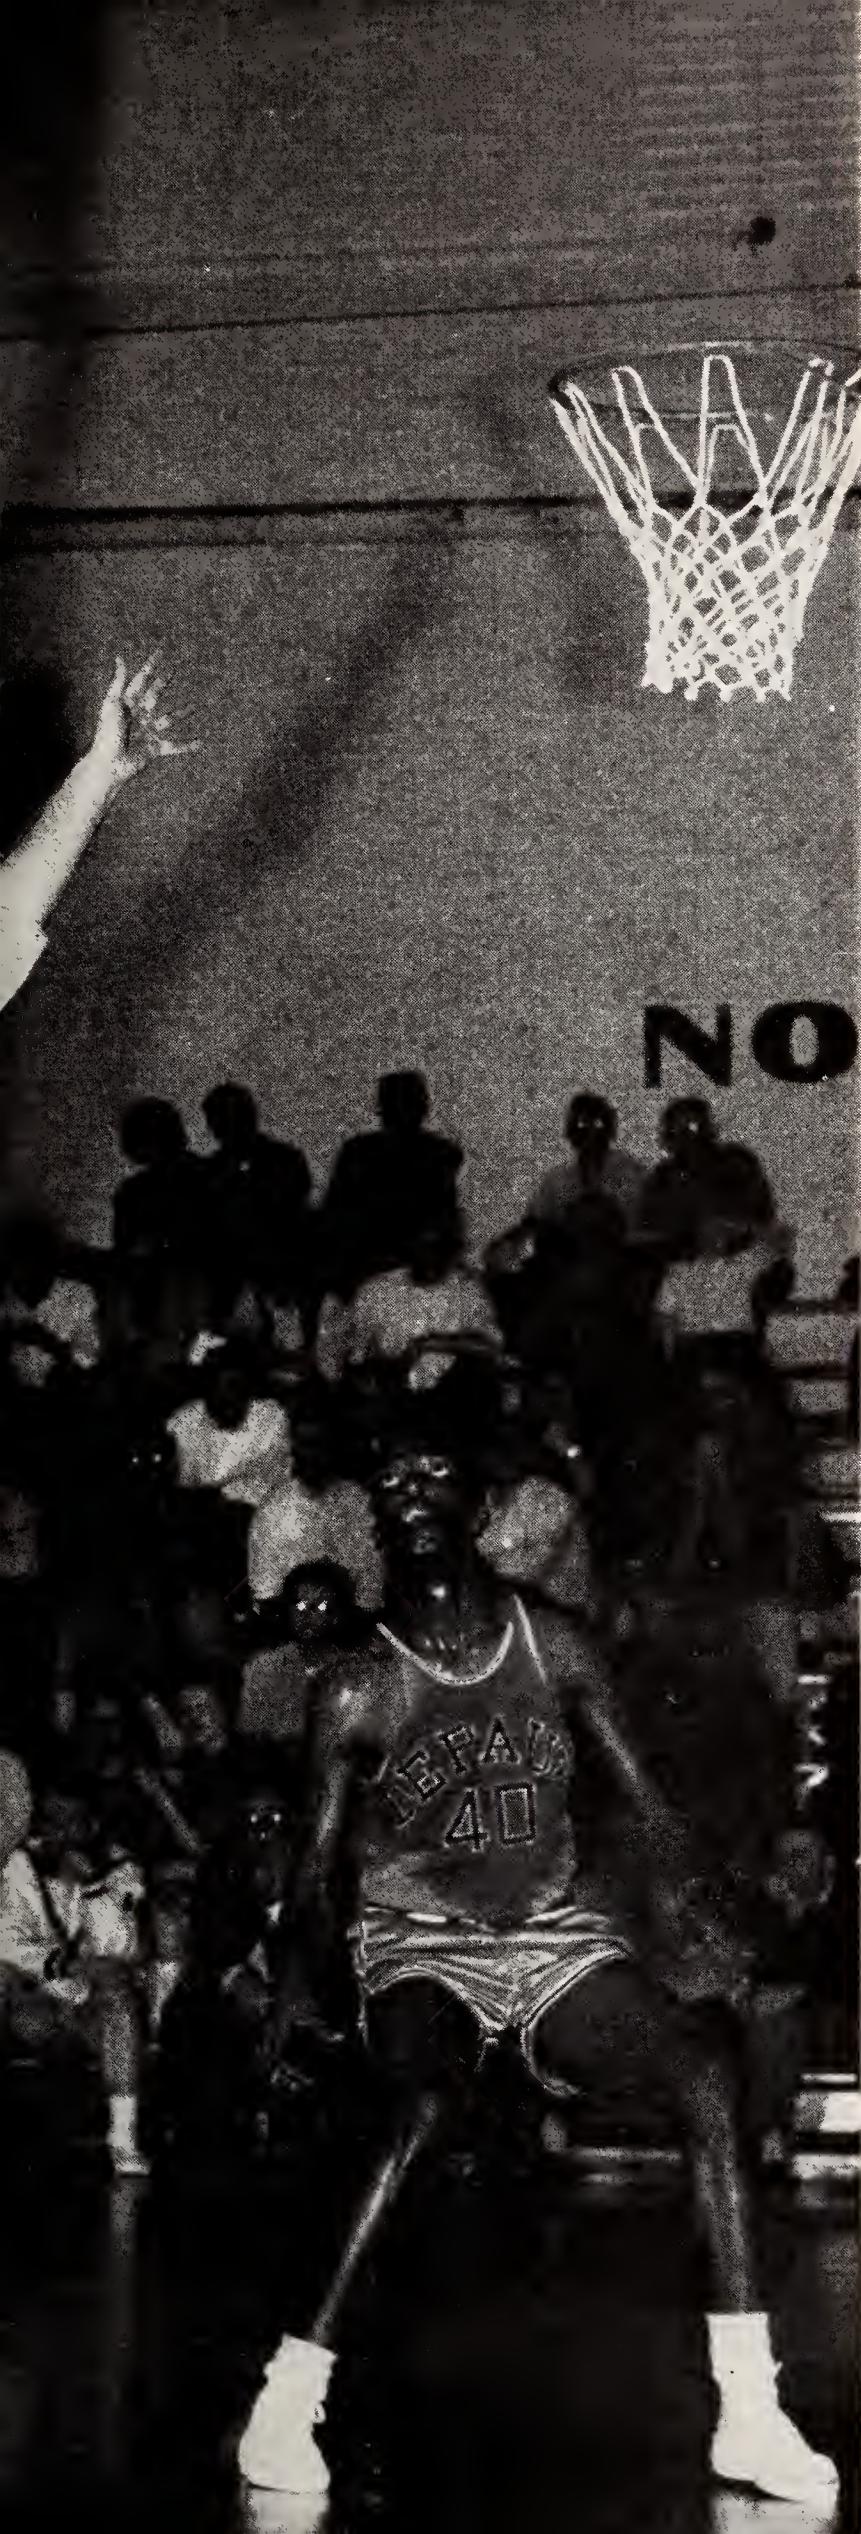

The significance of the victory was lost however, in the tragic death of Coach Dean Stevens. Stevens, who was in his first year at Wabash, died in an airplane wreck while returning from a scouting trip to Bradley.

The following week the team travelled to Southwestern where the Lynxes out-offensed the Little Giants 28-20. Fullback Sabatini was the offensive standout for the Red as he tallied all three touchdowns for Wabash.

It was "Black Saturday" at Wabash on November 21 as the efforts to recover the Monon Bell from DePauw were terminated in frustration for another year as the Tigers dumped the Little Giants to a final record of 3 wins-6 losses with a 24-8 victory.

Senior Guard Fred Pipin was the recipient of post season honors as he was selected Most Valuable Player and Honorary Captain by his teammates.

Charlie Bowerman lays one up against Earlham as Sherm Franz moves in for possible rebound.

An unidentified Caveman demonstrates the Wabash College athletic motto.

Faced with the problem of replacing three of last year's starters, Coach Bob Brock and his 1958-59 Little Giant basketball squad overcame this apparent handicap with amazing results. Following an expected slow start, the Brockmen climaxed one of the most successful seasons in Wabash basketball history by making their second consecutive trip to the NCAA College Division Basketball Tournament. Highlighting the path to Glen Ellyn, Illinois, site of the tournament, were two victories over DePauw and a win over Butler in the Bulldog's Fieldhouse, a feat which hadn't been accomplished in over a decade.

Guards Tom Bennett and Charlie Bowerman, center Sherm Franz, and forwards Bob Wedgeworth and John Hollett comprised the starting lineup for the majority of the season.

Providing more than adequate bench strength were guards Jim Price and Duane Axel, center Jim Cummings, and forwards Bill Boone and Dave Wilcox. Bowerman, Cummings, and Wilcox were three of the eight sophomores on this year's fifteen-man squad, which also included Rusty Cleland, Jim Wood, Charlie West, Jim Wells, and Mike Ogle.

Opening the season at Northern Illinois, the Little Giants dropped a seven point decision to an all-veteran team 68-61. Bennett paced Wabash with 14 points, with Wedgeworth and Hollett adding 11 and 10 points respectively. The opening of the home campaign proved to be an offensive show as the Cavemen bombed Chanute Air Force Base 98-72. Four Wabash cagers scored in double figures, led by Wedgeworth with 22 points. Two nights later, the Little Giants invaded Butler Fieldhouse, returning to Crawfordsville with a hard-fought victory, 56-55. Behind by one point with fifteen seconds remaining, Tom Bennett hit two clutch free throws to give Wabash the edge. Bennett scored 21 and Bowerman 12 in this tight contest, during which the lead changed hands 14 times.

The next three games proved to be the low point of the season for the Cavemen. After dropping a 69-60 decision to Indiana Central, the Little Giants suffered two straight overtime losses. Against Illinois Normal, the Brockmen overcame a 12 point half-time deficit to tie the score 61-61, only to lose in the overtime 77-68. Wabash had five men in double figures, but this was not enough to overcome a 20 point barrage by St. Joseph in the over-time period, giving the Pumas a 97-85 victory.

Travelling to DePauw, the Little Giants won a rough defensive battle 56-54. Tom Bennett dropped in 26 points to lead all scoring, while Bob Wedgeworth contributed 14 markers in a fine clutch performance. This initial victory over DePauw marked the turning point of the season for the Brockmen, as they returned from the Christmas vacation to win 9 of the 12 remaining regular season games.

The Little Giant cagers opened the post-Christmas campaign with a 78-61 win over Kalamazoo, followed three nights later by a defeat of Franklin 61-57. Catching fire, the Cavemen dropped Earlham 86-73 behind a 27 point performance by Charlie Bowerman. Then came a twelve day pause for exams, after which St. Joseph was edged 72-69. The Wabash zone defense held St. Joe's two top scoring threats, Rogovich and Williams, to a low 34 points, 29 points off their combined total in the earlier contest.

Illinois Normal unleashed a potent offensive machine to convince the Cavemen for the second time. Ending a five game Wabash winning streak, Normal over-powered the Little Giants 100-78. NIT-bound Butler then turned avenger, downing the Cavemen 79-68. The much-improved Bulldogs established a 16 point lead early in the second half and could not be overtaken by the game Little Giants.

The situation was reversed as Franklin cut away at a 13 point Wabash half-time lead, only to lose by two 73-71. Bennett with 23 and Bowerman with 18 again led the Caveman attack. Washington of St. Louis then absorbed a 92-71 defeat with Bowerman sinking his season high of 29 points. Fort Harrison found conditions even tougher! Shooting from the field at a .632 clip, the Little Giants established five new team scoring records in crushing the military 120-89.

On the road for the last time, the Cavemen were out-classed by Akron 87-64. The Zips were ranked 5th nationally among small colleges. The Brockmen recovered quickly, however, defeating Ohio Wesleyan 86-77 the following night. Bennett and Bowerman combined for 55 points, with Hollett and Wedgeworth getting 14 apiece.

Closing the regular season at home, the Little Giants administered a humiliating 91-58 beating to the DePauw Tigers, making it two in a row over our rivals from Greencastle. Guards Bennett and Bowerman contributed 54 points between them, just 4 short of the DePauw total.

Moving on to the NCAA Tournament, the Caveman lost their opening game to 6th ranked Wheaton 102-83. They returned the following evening, to route Loras of Iowa 100-79, giving Wabash third place in the tournament.

Many were the post-season honors for the Little Giants. As a team, Wabash was ranked 1st nationally in small-college free-throw shooting percentages, establishing a new national record of .767. Charlie Bowerman, in addition to his 1st team All-Tournament selection at Glen Ellyn, was rated 8th nationally in individual small-college free-throw shooting. Bob Wedgeworth was named to the 2nd All-Tournament team at Glen Ellyn. Bowerman was selected as Most Valuable Player by his teammates. Sherm Franz was chosen Honorary Captain. Wedgeworth received the Sportsmanship award, and Jim Cumming was selected as the Most Improved player of the year.

Wedgeworth strains for two as Hollett gives mental assistance.

Coach Red Kenney welcomed back ten lettermen to this year's Little Giant baseball squad in hopes of improving upon last season's 5-11 record. Lack of experience and poor hitting were partially responsible for several of last year's reversals, which included one-run losses to Indiana 0-1, Purdue 5-6, and Butler 3-4.

The Cavemen's 1958 wins were registered at the expense of Indiana Central 8-3, St. Joseph 7-3, DePauw 5-2, Anderson 10-9, and Marian 8-7. The remainder of the losses were suffered to Anderson 1-3, Purdue 1-7, DePauw 2-5, Indiana Central 0-5, Indiana State 2-21, Earlham 1-3, and two to Notre Dame 3-6 and 0-8. Considering the caliber of the competition, it is not hard to sympathize with Coach Kenney, as he was forced to rely on freshmen to carry much of the load.

But with eight of these Freshmen returning again this year, experience is expected to be one of stronger points of the club. Only three men were lost through graduation or transfer, but unluckily, all three were starters last season. Bruce Swanson, last year's top hurler, left in June, along with outfielder Bill Hamer and first-baseman Tim Murphy.

Swanson will be missed, but three lettermen return to the mound staff to provide a good nucleus. Righthander Del Gregory and southpaw Jim McVay are seniors, both with three years of experience behind them. Sophomore John Birdzell is another lefthander expected to pitch in a starting role, as he turned in several good performances as a freshman. Providing badly needed depth are newcomers Dick White, a freshman, and Mike Blackmore, a junior.

Lettermen were available at three positions in the infield, led by three-year veteran Art Castellani at second base. Senior George Trout, playing his first season of college baseball, held down third base, with sophomore Hobby Elliot backing him. Sophomore Charlie Bowerman, who opened the season at shortstop, shifted to first base, while sophomore Chris Witteveld moved back to short, thus playing the position he held down on a full-time basis last year. Both of these men are lettermen. Two sophomores, Charles West and Rudy Folta, strengthened the infield at first base and shortstop, respectively.

With the exception of Hamer, who was injured much of the 1958 campaign, the starting outfield from last year was back intact. Lettermen Fred Schue, Jay Moore, and Jim Heckman played in starting roles, but they were pushed hard by Ron Ritter, a sophomore transfer from Northwestern, and freshman Ken Parmalee. Junior Bill Boone, the team's leading hitter in 1958, returned as first-string catcher. Ron Warnicke, a good freshman prospect, added depth to the backstop position.

The Little Giants opened the 1959 diamond campaign with a twin-bill at St. Joseph's. The Cavemen used two rookie pitchers in the first game as Wabash came up with an easy 19-7 win. White started the game and went 4 innings, being relieved in the fourth by Blackmore, who went on to finish the game.

Wabash collected 8 hits while allowing St. Joe only 4. The nightcap ended in a 3-3 tie, the game being called in the seventh inning due to darkness.

Travelling to Indiana Central, the Little Giants pounded out twice as many hits as the Greyhounds, but lost a close one 6-5. Four costly errors proved to be the deciding factor. One week later, Notre Dame shelled three Wabash hurlers for 11 hits and 12 runs, while allowing the Cavemen 1 run on 3 hits. Chris Witteveld doubled and then scored on Bill Boone's single to provide the only Wabash tally.

In the only other game played up to this time, Indiana defeated the Little Giants 17-2, connecting for 19 hits, two of them going out of the park. Bill Boone's homer was the only bright spot of the day for the Cavemen.

With thirteen games left to be played, there is still ample time for improvement. Improved hitting as a team and increased self-confidence on the part of the younger men could help Wabash towards its first winning baseball season in several years.

TRACK

The 1958 Little Giant track squad established itself as one of the finest teams to ever run under the guidance of Coach Owen Huntsman. In addition to copping the Little State Track Championship, the Wabash thinlies established or tied five all-time Wabash records last spring. A tie for fifth place in the Big State meet and a 5-2 record in dual meets rounded out a highly successful season for the Cavemen track team.

Opening the '58 season at the Naperville Relays, Wabash grabbed 4th place in a field of 18 teams. Warren Hall was the individual standout for the Cavemen as he won the mile run 4:35.6, a new record for the Relays. In their first dual meet of the year, the Little Giants drubbed Indiana Central 93-38. Freshman Bruce Brubenzier became the first new Wabash record holder of the year, breaking the old school record in the low hurdles in a time of 24.9. The running of the Memphis Relays saw Wabash capture the two mile relay and place second in the sprint medley, even though the Cavemen broke the old record in the sprint event.

Two weeks later, the fifth annual Wabash Relays were held on Ingalls Field. The Little Giants ran off with four 1st place trophies and were 1st in the unofficial scoring. Wabash wins came in the mile, two-mile, distance medley, and sprint shuttle races. Four new Relays records were set as Capitol College erased the old times in both hurdle events, and Hanover set new marks in the broad jump and javelin.

After edging Ball State 67-64, the Cavemen swamped Hanover by a count of 82-49. Greg Woodham equalled his own record in the high jump, reaching 6-1, and freshman Ron Rein-hart took firsts in both the mile and half-mile. Warren Hall remained undefeated in the two mile run. A strong showing in the field events enabled Butler to edge the Little Giants 71-65, followed by a slim Caveman defeat at the hands of Chicago 67-63.

Moving into Big Ten competition, the Wabash thinlies placed third in a three-way meet with Purdue and Northwestern. Hall won the mile and two-mile, Inman led the field in the 880, and freshman Bob Ornberg grabbed the discus toss as Wabash piled up 43 points, just 5 points less than Northwestern's second place showing. The Cavemen followed this with an 88-43 drubbing of DePauw.

Running against the best in the state, the Little Giants cornered a fifth place in the Big State meet, which was held on Ingall's Field. Hall set a new school record of 4:17.5 in winning the mile run, and Inman established a new Wabash record by placing third in the 880 in a time of 1:56. Indiana nosed out Notre Dame for team honors 89-87.

The Little Giants tuned up for the Little State meet and closed out their dual competition by crushing Earlham 118-13. Then came the Little State! The Cavemen ran up a total of almost 59 points to win going away over 2nd place Ball State. Wabash copped five firsts, three seconds, and placed no lower than third in 11 of the 15 events. Hall was a double winner in the mile and two-mile, with Inman, Ornberg and the mile relay team dominating the other three 1st place trophies.

The outlook for the 1959 Little Giant track reveals tremendous strength in the middle and long-distances, but a corresponding shortage of manpower in the field events. Ron Stach and Jerry Swayzee are lost in the pole vault, as are Ornberg and Bubenzer in the shot put and hurdles. Hall, Inman, and Reinhart are back in the distance events, which are strengthened by the return of Grant VanHorne, school record holder in the two-mile, and freshman Jerry Robinson. Letterman Mike Hughes and freshman Dennis Gaughn are the 440 men who will also run in the mile relay. Dennis Holmes, who tied the school record of 10.0 in the 100 last year, will team with letterman Butch West in the dashes. Freshman Bob LaRue provides depth in the hurdle events, which are anchored by lettermen Phil Vincent and Al Huff. Junior Chip Edwards adds strength to both the dashes and hurdles.

Greg Woodham, holder of the school high jump record at 6-1½, Don Smith in the javelin and shot-putter Joe Sabatini are the three lettermen returning in the field events. Much of the slack here must be taken up by freshman Mike Smith in the shot-put, Dick Adamson in the broad jump and high jump, and Tom Swayzee and Jim Hamsher in the pole vault are the top yearling prospects.

BIG STATE TRACK MEET . . .

The top track powers in the state assembled at Ingalls Field on May 14, 1958 for the annual running of the Big State meet. The competitors lived up to their advance notices as five Big State marks and two Wabash school records were broken. Indiana narrowly edged Notre Dame 89-87 to win the team championship, while Purdue finished third with 51½ points. Wabash and Ball State finished in a tie for fifth with 19 counters, close behind Butler's 22 point output. Other schools competing, listed in the order of their finish, were Hanover, Franklin, Indiana Central, Indiana State, DePauw, and Valparaiso.

Indiana Univ. trackmen accounted for four of the new Big State records. Hurdler Willie May of I.U. stepped to a new time of 14.2 in the highs, and followed up by shaving .2 of a second off the old low hurdle mark. May ran the 220 yard lows around a curve in 23.7. The old mile relay record also fell at the hands of the Indiana team as the quartet of Laconi, Smith, Williams and Caffey toured the four laps in 3:14.3. I.U.'s Caffey had earlier established a record time in the 440 when he broke the tape in 47.6 seconds. The final Big State record breaking performances were turned in by two Purdue pole vaulters, Jones and Johnston. Both Boilermakers cleared 14'1¼" to erase the previous record of 14'5/16".

Sophomore Warren Hall and Junior Walt Inman accounted for the two new Wabash school records. Hall dethroned the defending champion, Notre Dame's Dicamillo, in winning the mile in 4:17.4, only 6 seconds off the Big State mark. Inman bettered his own previous time as he grabbed a third in the 880, traveling the distance in 1:56 flat.

Indiana University, in amassing their 89 points, won 9 of the 15 events. Olympic star Greg Bell paced the Hoosier thinlies with wins in the broad jump and both dashes, thus becoming the only triple-winner of the day. In addition to May's two 1st in the hurdles, I.U. trackmen cornered other victories in the shot-put, 440 yard run, 880 yard run, and the mile relay. Second-place Notre Dame picked up just two wins, the discus and 2 mile run, but the Irish managed to place as many as three men in some events. Purdue captured 1st place trophies in the javelin and pole vault, Ball State took the high jump, and Wabash's Hall won the mile run.

Three other Little Giants contributed to Wabash's 19 point total. Freshman Bob Ornberg managed a fourth place in the shot put with a toss of 44'9½". Then sophomores Greg Woodham and John Peebles closed out the Cavemen scoring by clearing the high jump bar at 5'10½", good for fifth place.

All-American Jim Johnson stretches to clear 14' 1½" to set a new Big State record.

Wabash . . .

RELAYS

Running of the sixth annual Wabash Relays resulted in six new records, Wabash accounting for two of them. The Little Giant two-mile relay team of Warren Hall, Ron Reinhart, Walt Inman, and Grant VanHorne chopped 7 sec. off the old record to cross the tape in a time of 8:03.6. This same foursome set a new mark in the distance medley of 10:53.2, erasing the old record of 11:03.9 set by Beloit in 1955.

Other records were set by DePauw in the sprint medley, Hanover in the 360 yard high hurdle shuttle, North Central in the javelin, and Manchester in the pole vault.

The third Wabash victory of the day was captured by the mile relay team of Dennis Gaughan, Rainhart, Inman, and Mike Hughes. Senior Walt Inman climaxed a tremendous individual effort by being named the meet's outstanding athlete, a selection made by a vote of the coaches.

Vince LaDonne struggles to gain an escape.

The Little Giant matmen, coached by Chuck Sanders, overcame a season plagued considerably by inexperience, and went on to win the 1st Little State Wrestling Championship, held at Wabash.

During the regular season the wrestlers defeated Ball State, Ohio Wesleyan, Wittenburg, and posted two wins over Cincinnati. Wrestling against top-flight competition, the squad suffered losses to Cornell of Iowa, Miami, Bradley, Western Michigan, Wheaton, DePauw, Eastern Illinois, Chicago, Illinois Normal, and Indiana Central.

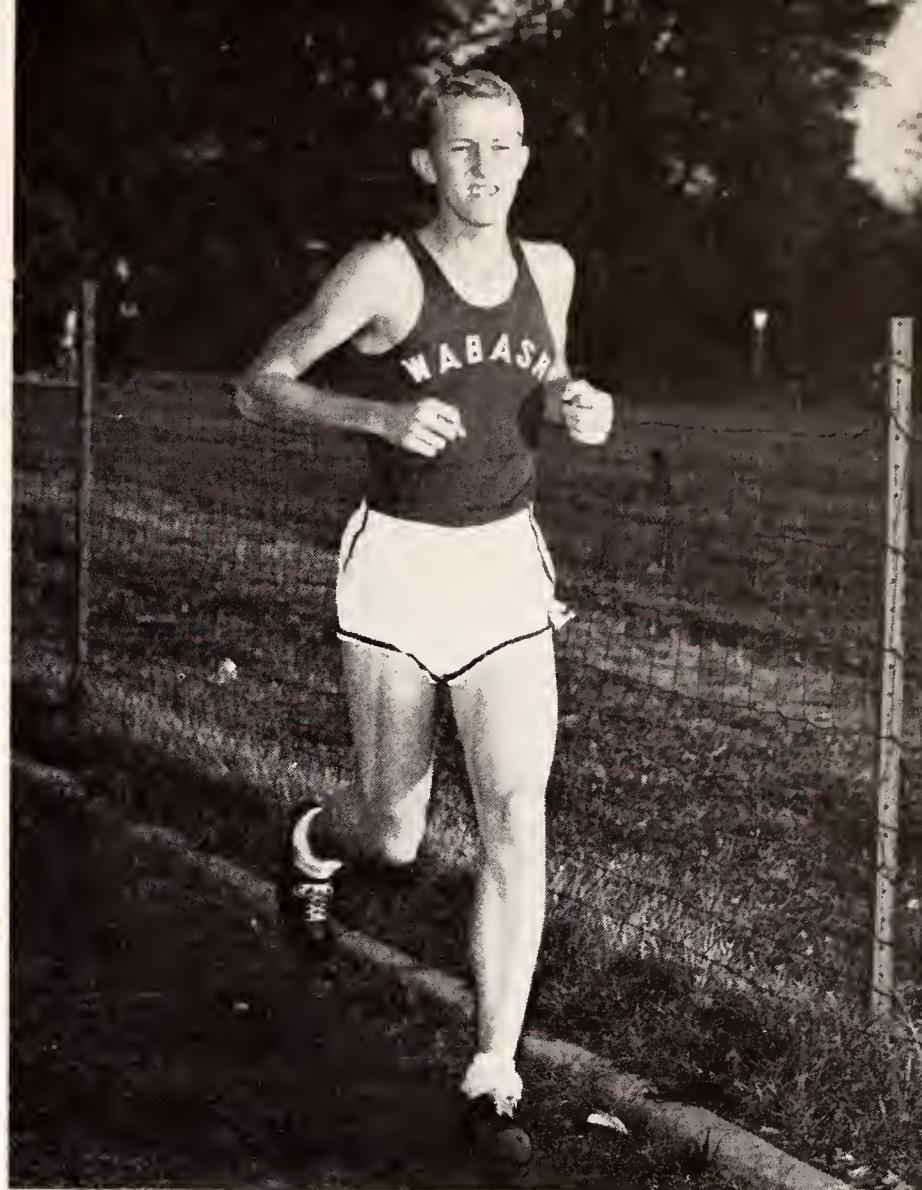

Entering the Little State Meet as underdogs, the game Wabash grapplers nevertheless captured the title by a narrow 60-59 margin over 2nd place DePauw.

John Arbo and Al Witt picked up Wabash's two 1st by pinning their men in the final round, while Pat Haney, Bill Thompson, and Larry Warren received runner-up honors in the finals. All of these men are Freshmen, and prospects look good for next year as only one man is lost through graduation. Haney was elected Most Valuable, Warren was chosen as Honorary Captain, Thompson was named as Most Improved, and John Sandlewick received the Sportsmanship award.

CROSS COUNTRY

Experience and depth were the two chief characteristics of Coach Owen Huntsman's 1958 cross country team. Six lettermen returned from the undefeated Little State champion squad of the previous year. Heading the list of returning letter-winners was Junior Warren Hall, who established a new Wabash record in the mile-run last spring. Letterman Ron Reinhart, a sophomore, and freshman Jerry Robinson ran in the number two and three positions, respectively. Bolstering the team were other returning lettermen Al Huff, Jon Gregory, and Wayne Cobb. Other members of the squad were Walt Lippard, Ron Sommer, Dick Alexander, and George Rose.

Huntsman's harriers proved to be too strong for Indiana Central, Ball State, Albion, Valparaiso, DePauw, Chicago, and Ohio University. The Little Giant squad lost only to highly rated Miami of Ohio during the regular season. The Cavemen closed out the year by again winning the Little State meet, placing third in the Big State, and sixth in the small college NCAA Cross Country meet.

Two-year veteran Bill Locker chips one to the green

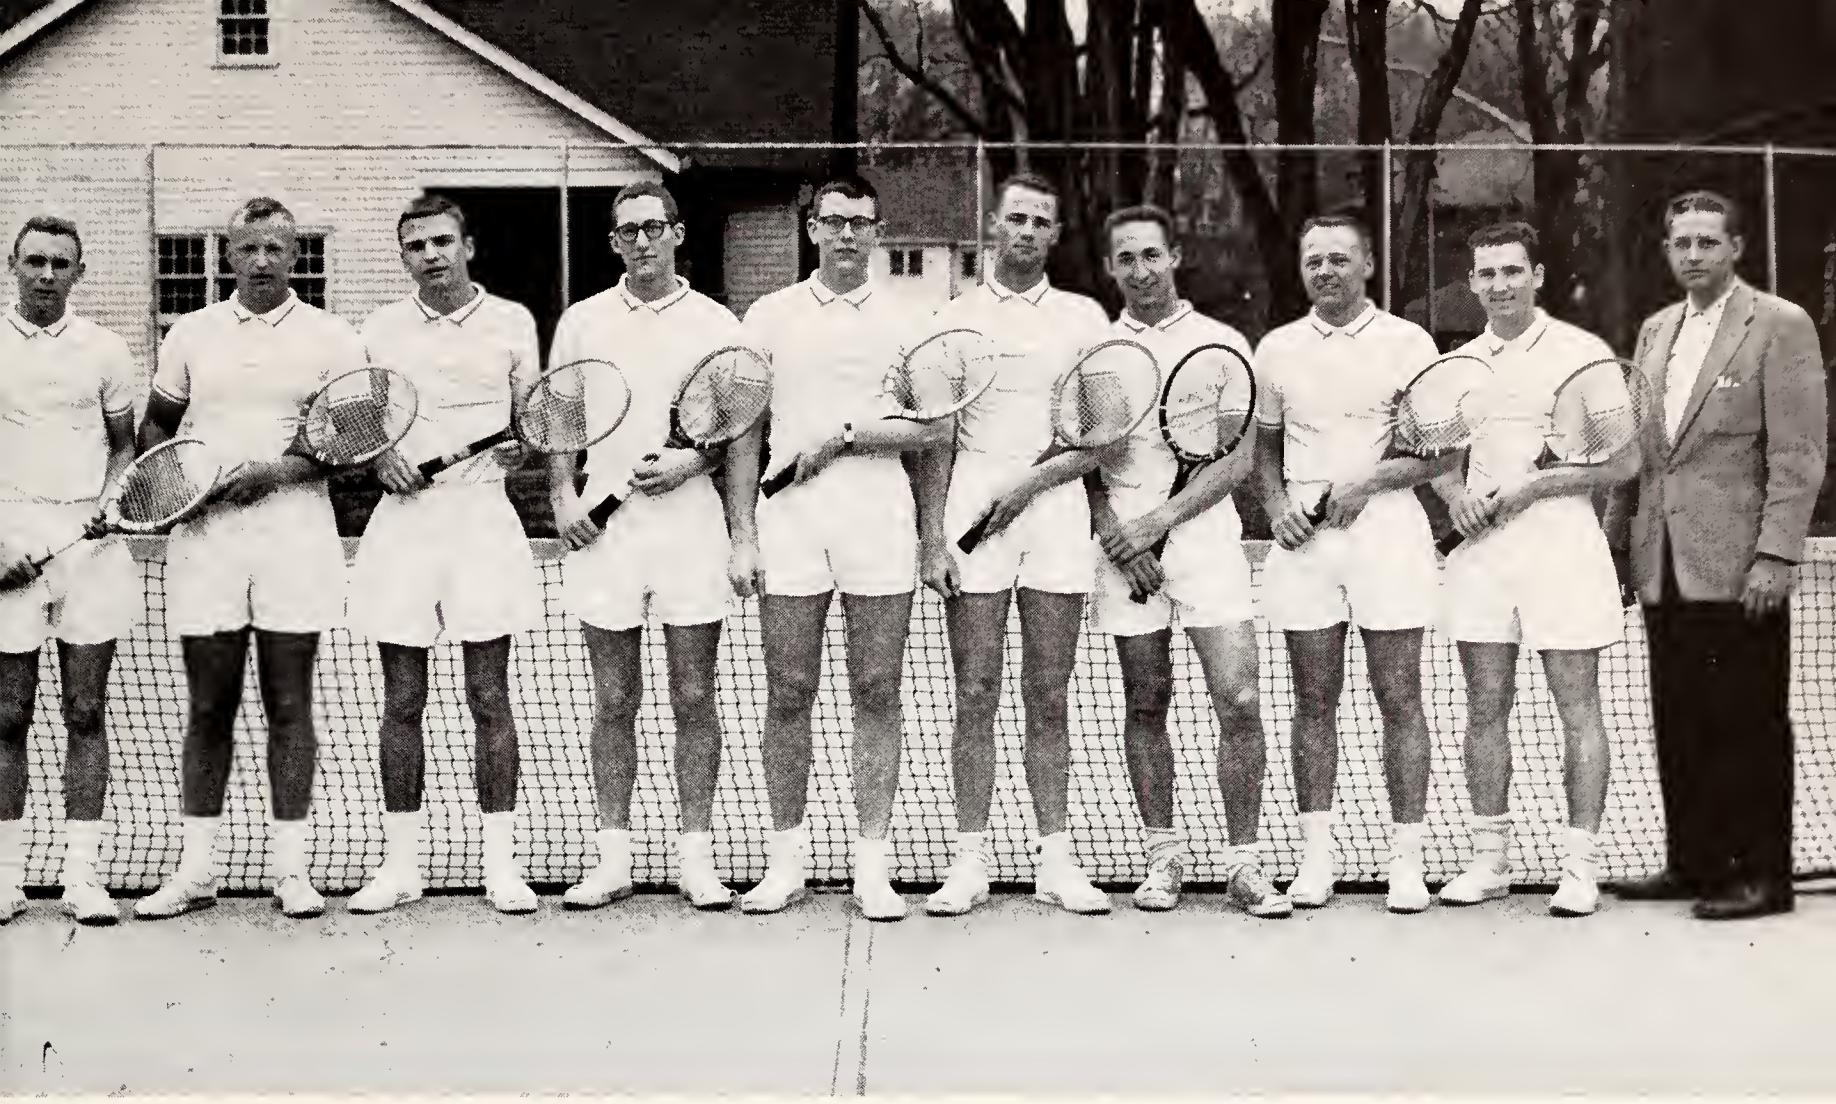

Five of seven Lettermen were back this season to tackle another rough links schedule. These men return from the Little Giant squad that went 9-11 in dual meets and placed third in the 1958 Little State competition.

The returnees were seniors Tom Black, Dick Jack, and Chris Johnson; junior Bill Locker, 1957 Little State medalist; and sophomore John Currier. Newcomers to the squad include Joe Kiley, Dick Houston, Tom Bennett, Dale Lentz, Butch Johnson, Paul Roberts, and Tom Emmick.

As this book goes to press the Little Giant Linksmen have defeated Marion and Indiana Central, while losing to Purdue, Illinois, and Butler. The best prospects so far appear to be Bill Locker and Tom Black. Faced with seven more matches, however, the rest of the squad will have ample opportunities to display their talents.

TENNIS

Coach Bob Brock had four returning lettermen from last year's team which had a 2-4 record. The returning men were seniors Dave Krizman, Quinn, Benson, and Max Riedlsperger and junior John Johnson. Other candidates included Dave Rose, Terry Anderson, Drew Brennan, and Tim Talbot.

The Little Giant racket-squad opened their '59 season by defeating Indiana Central and Marion College. They were handed a defeat in the third match, however, by the powerful Butler squad. Indiana Central, Marian, and Butler are newcomers to the schedule, replacing Eastern Illinois, Bradley, and Earlham. Indiana State and DePauw were on the schedule this year as usual.

As the 1959 intramural competition opened, the Delts and Phi Gams tied for the football trophy, a game and one-half ahead of the second place Betas. The Phi Psis and Delts won cross country, followed by the Phi Gam's win over the Betas in volleyball, dethroning the four-year defending champions. The Delts nailed down the basketball crown with an 8-1 record, but dropped the All-Star game 48-45. Closing out the winter sports season, the Betas took bowling and the Phi Psis won both the indoor track and badminton titles.

With the softball and outdoor track championships yet to be decided, the Delts, Betas, Phi Gams, and Phi Psis all have a chance for the '59 intramural crown.

RESIDENCES

Beta Theta Pi

Beta Theta Pi fraternity was founded in 1839 by eight young men, all students at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Beta Theta Pi, together with Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta comprise the famous "Miami Triad," since all three fraternities were founded at Oxford, Ohio.

Tau, the twelfth of 97 chapters founded in United States and Canada, and the first fraternity founded at Wabash, was organized in 1846 by John Colburn. After a brief period of inactivity in the early fifties, the chapter became firmly established and has been in continuous existence since then.

The chapter house was acquired in 1906 and "Old 513" was remodelled to its present form in 1929. The house has accommodations for about forty men. The chapter publication, Tau's Bark, appears once each year. The national publication, Beta Theta Pi, appears monthly. The fraternity colors are delicate shades of pink and blue and the official flower of Beta Theta Pi is the American Beauty rose.

On campus the Beta house is known for its activities and high scholarship. During the first semester the house won the coveted scholarship trophy and also the pledge class scholarship trophy. The Betas have likewise been strong in intramurals and as we go to press are pushing toward first place in the annual race.

Lane Ferree and Fred Scott led the Beta chapter during the past two semesters.

Delta Tau Delta

Delta Tau Delta fraternity was founded in 1859 at Bethany College, Virginia. It was a charter member of the National Interfraternity Conference and maintains 87 chapters across the nation.

Beta Psi chapter of Delta Tau Delta, one of the five Delt chapters in Indiana, was founded at Wabash college in 1872. While at Wabash the chapter has occupied two locations.

The official magazine of the fraternity is The Rainbow which is published quarterly and distributed to the chapters by the central office. The Little Giant Delt is the publication of Beta Psi at Wabash. It is published twice annually and sent to friends and alumni of the chapter.

The fraternity house has living accommodations for 34 men, with 2 to 5 men in each study room. The dining and kitchen areas are on the main floor along with the library and cardroom. The house also has a recreation room in the basement. All study rooms are located on the second floor.

The chapter is fortunate to have as their chapter advisor Mr. L. L. Schaffer, who has served longer as chapter advisor than any other man in Delta Tau Delta. Mr. Schaffer has been the chapter advisor for 36 years and has become known as Mr. Beta Psi.

Delta Tau Delta finished their 1957-58 intramural season by winning the Wabash Intramural Trophy for the second year in a row. The Delts also took the trophy for the best Pan Hellenic decorations. As we go to press this year the Delts are again in the lead in intramurals.

Kappa Sigma

Kappa Sigma fraternity, with 131 chapters in the United States and Canada, was founded at the University of Virginia in 1869.

The Alpha Pi chapter of the fraternity was founded on the Wabash campus early in 1895. Since its founding the local chapter has initiated over 600 men of the 80,000 who now claim Kappa Sigma membership.

The national publication is The Caduceus and the chapter paper is the Kappa Sigma Caveman. The local chapter has placed either first or second in the national publications awards since 1952 when the paper was founded.

Alpha Pi has had five homes since its founding and has been in its present location, 200 West College, since 1928. At the present time the house has living accommodations for 43 men and dining facilities for over 60. The recreation, dining, and kitchen areas are in the basement; the living area covers the main floor; all study rooms are located on the second floor; and the 45 bed dorm is on the third floor.

Here at Wabash the K-Sigs are especially known for scholarship, holding the scholarship cup during the first semester this year. K-Sigs are also active on the yearbook, the newspaper, the debate team, and Scarlet Masque. They also fielded good cross-country and basketball teams.

Lou Martin and George Gessler led the house during the year.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Since its establishment in 1918, the Alpha Kappa chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha has been an integral part of the Wabash College family. The national fraternity, founded in 1909, now stands as a leader among college fraternities with 151 chapters, the largest number of any Greek letter society.

The local chapter publishes its own Alpha Kappa Chats, while news of national interest is found in The Cross and Crescent. A $45,000 addition to the Wabash chapter house, completed in the fall of 1953, adds more convenience and livability to the fine old brick mansion, and makes the Lambda Chi house one of the best on the campus. The rest of the house was completely refurnished, and the two wooded acres surrounding the house were landscaped at this time.

Here at Wabash the Lambda Chis have been especially active in Scarlet Masque. Many of the brothers have also participated in varsity athletics. The Lambda Chis fielded an exceptionally good basketball team this year and tied for first place in the intramural basketball race. The local chapter can also boast of a number of prominent members of the faculty who are Lambda Chis, including Drs. Briganee, Bruce, Howell, Johnson, Mielke, and Polley.

Keith Stephen and Nick Mottern served as presidents of the chapter during the first and second semester respectively.

Phi Delta Theta

Phi Delta Theta was founded at Miami University in 1848. Indiana Beta, the second oldest chapter in continuous existence and the second fraternity at Wabash was founded in 1850. There are now 120 chapters throughout the United States and Canada.

The local chapter publishes The Scarlet Phi and the national fraternity publication is known as The Scroll. Azure and argent are the colors of the fraternity and the flower is the white carnation.

During the Civil War 35 men from the local chapter served on the Northern side. The chapter turned over its house for the purpose of a camp hospital when a Student's Training Army was established at Wabash during the First World War. The house was also occupied as a barracks for the V-12 unit when the Navy "occupied" the college during the Second World War.

Throughout all this the chapter continued to function and is today one of the most active fraternities on the Wabash campus and one of the outstanding Phi Delt chapters in the national fraternity.

In addition to having men active in all phases of college athletics the Phi Dels worked in Scarlet Masque, Blue Key, publications, Sphinx Club, and nearly all other campus activities. They also fielded strong intramural teams and finished near the top in campus scholarship.

Mike Plummer and Tom Black served the chapter as presidents during the past year.

Phi Gamma Delta

Phi Gamma Delta was founded at Jefferson College, forerunner of Washington and Jefferson College, at Washington, Pennsylvania, in 1848. Psi, the Wabash chapter of Phi Gamma Delta, was established in 1866 and was the "founding father" of the Phi Gamma Delta chapter at Purdue University in 1926. Phi Gamma Delta has been in continuous existence at Wabash College since 1866 and has initiated one thousand men into the fraternity. There are 86 Phi Gam chapters in the United States and Canada.

Psi chapter publishes the Little Giant Fiji, quarterly, while news of national interest to the fraternity is found in the Phi Gamma Delta, a monthly publication.

In March, Psi Chapter put on its trademark dance—Fiji Island, a dance for which the house always goes all out on an authentic South Sea atmosphere. This time, however, the Phi Gams constructed more elaborate decorations than had ever been attempted before. Besides the usual waterfall and lagoon in the living room, the basement hallways were transformed into paper maché tunnels and the bum room was given a jungle setting by hanging vines from the ceiling. On the evening of the dance the South Sea atmosphere prevailed at the Fiji Island dinner, with the menu consisting of Hawaiian pineapple, baked fish, and their dates completed the atmosphere by wearing sarongs to the meal and to the dance.

Phi Kappa Psi

The newest fraternity on the Wabash campus is the Indiana Gamma Chapter of Phi Kappa Psi. The local chapter was established in 1870 but went inactive in 1901 and was not reestablished until October 17, 1948.

Phi Kappa Psi was founded at what is now Washington and Jefferson College in Washington, Pennsylvania. Since this birth on February 19, 1852, Phi Kappa Psi has grown until today it includes 60 chapters, extending from coast to coast.

There are alumni associations in all major cities of the United States. The quarterly national magazine, is known as The Shield. Because of their common birthplace, Phi Kappa Psi and Phi Gamma Delta are often known as the "Jeff Duo."

The youth of the chapter has not hampered its growth and today it is one of the most active on the Wabash Campus. Among its members are the chairman of the board of college publications, the president and secretary of Blue Key, and the treasurer of the Intra-Fraternity Council. Strong in Scarlet Masque and Debate the Phi Psis are always dangerous in Intramural competition.

Leadership of the chapter during the past two semesters was provided by Don Nordlund and Chuck Sanders.

Sigma Chi

Sigma Chi fraternity was founded at Miami University on June 28, 1855. Since then it has grown in number to over 70,000 members and 131 active chapters. The strength of its alumni is shown by 119 alumni chapters and associations. The national publication of the fraternity is the Magazine of Sigma Chi. The flower of the fraternity is the white rose and its colors are blue and gold. The white cross is the badge.

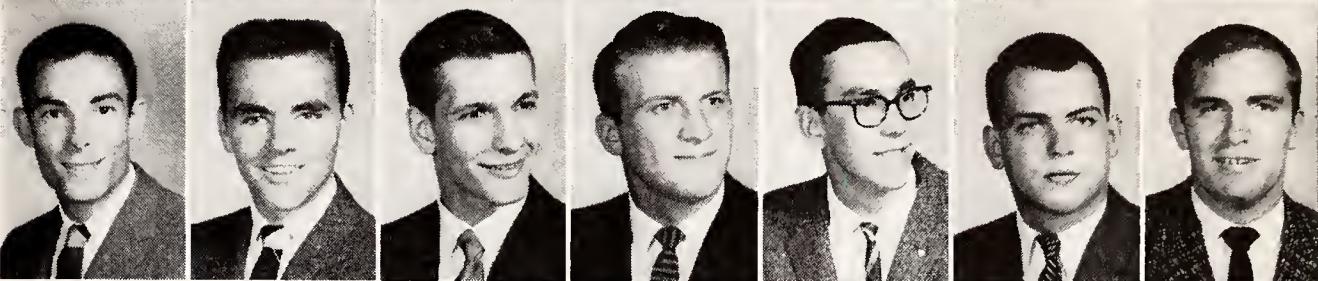

Delta Chi chapter of Sigma Chi was founded at Wabash college in 1880. Shortly thereafter it became inactive until it was reestablished in 1909. Until 1946 the chapter was housed in the building now called Kane House. In 1947 its alumni bought and remodeled the house on the corner of Crawford Street and Wabash Avenue. The "white house on the hill," as the Sig House is now called, serves as home for some 50 Wabash Sigma Chis. Every spring Delta Chi puts out its own chapter publication, the Little Giant Sig.

Here at Wabash the Sigs have been active in every phase of college life. They have been strong in varsity athletics, especially basketball, as well as in intramurals. Sigs are active in nearly all campus activities including Blue Key, Scarlet Masque, publications, Sphinx Club, etc. Sherm Franz and Evan Steger served as presidents during the first and second semesters respectively.

Wolcott and Morris

Seventy men are housed in the college's two new dorms, Wolcott and Morris Halls. The dormitories were first occupied in October, 1954 and have been in constant operation since that time. Each provides housing accommodations for thirty-five students. Morris Hall is a memorial to Mr. E. M. Morris of South Bend and is a gift to Wabash college from members of Mr. Morris' family. Wolcott Hall, which is identical in all respects to Morris, is a gift to the college from Roger Wolcott, who graduated from Wabash in 1915.

Each student living in the dorms has a private room with built-in bed, desk, and closet space. Each room is adjoined by a two man bath to the room next to it. The rooms are well-lighted and well aired. Two counsellors in each dorm keep a watchful eye on things and maintain certain quiet hours for study.

The men in the dormitories eat in the great hall of the Campus Center. Meals are served three times daily and are prepared by the staff under the direction of Mrs. Taylor, who is in charge of the Campus Center.

Although about half of the students in the dorms are freshmen a great deal of organization is shown and each year intramural teams as well as Homecoming skits and decorations are maintained by "Wol-Mor." In addition many of the men in the two dorms hold membership in the Independent Men's Association.

Independent Men

The men pictured on this page and the preceding page make up the group known on campus as "Kin-Kan." The three dorms, Kingery, Kane and Scott, pictured on the preceding page have accommodations for about 50 Independent Men. Others live in private homes scattered around Crawfordsville. Some are married and living in the town while others make their homes in the hollow.

Many of these men are affiliated with the Independent Men's Association. All are eligible to participate on the intra-mural athletic teams sponsored by Kin-Kan and every year manage to hold their own in the race.

Headquarters for these men is the campus center where many of them take their meals, study, and use the recreational facilities. The Campus Center lounges, bowling alleys, billiard room, and the Scarlet Inn are all favorite spots.

SUCCESS TO THE CLASS OF '59!

The Donnelley organization at Crawfordsville offers its congratulations to the students, the faculty, and the administrative staff of Wabash College on the completion of another school year.

It is with pleasure that we see the students gather in the fall, and with corresponding regret that we see them scatter to the winds in the month of June. And we hope that we may be pardoned for our measure of pride when we reflect that so many of our products contribute to the education and comfort of these special guests of our community while they are with us.

Our best wishes to every member of the Class of 1959 for success and happiness!
